

Many Persons Converted As Result of Big Revival Campaign in 91 Churches

Hundreds of Lay Workers Are Cooperating With Pastors and Revival Leaders in Services.

With hundreds of lay workers joining heart and soul in the efforts of pastors and revival leaders, the great city-wide evangelistic campaign now being simultaneously conducted in 91 Atlanta churches, Thursday gained new momentum and promise to result in the greatest religious awakening ever experienced in any southern city.

Reports from the churches uniformly recount marvelous experiences of conversion and added interest in church work and it is a daily occurrence for word to be received of numerous additions to the roster of membership of all of the participating churches.

Thursday the story was told of a man who was converted and joined the Oakhurst Presbyterian church on Wednesday night, although previously he hadn't been within the doors of a church for 15 years. This man's wife died only two weeks ago and, according to Rev. Marshall Woodson, pastor of the church, his only regret was that she had not lived long enough to see his reformation.

Crowds continue to fill the Western Memorial church to overflowing at the daily services at 10 o'clock in the morning and 7:30 at night, where Rev. Frank M. Neal, of Texas, and Rev. H. Poulter, originally from Ardmore, Okla., are preaching "the old-time gospel." Announcement is made from this church that Friday night has been designated "Ford night." A vacant lot has been rented for parking of cars and all drivers of the automobile vehicle are urged to attend.

A feature of the meetings of Thursday night was the fifth of the series of Episcopal union Lutheran services, held at the Church of the Holy Comforter on Pullman street.

At the Edgewood Baptist church, Dr. Ray Palmer, St. Louis evangelist, preached to a capacity audience, while special music was led by Mr. F. V. Dr. Palmer's subject Thursday night was "The Castaway—Or the Greatest Shipwreck on Earth."

Methodist Services.
In the Methodist churches a characteristic of the revivals is that most of the pastors are serving their first year in their present charges and are conducting their meetings entirely through home forces. All pastors state that their congregations are rallying to their appeal with remarkable unanimity and that big results are in prospect for the immediate future.

Rev. L. M. Twigg, pastor of St. John Methodist church, now conducting his third revival in that church, reported that his congregations have grown until the large auditorium is filled to capacity. The service Thursday night was especially for the young people and was conducted by the Epworth League and young people of the congregation. Dr. Twigg used as his sermon subject, "Missing the Chance." Services tonight will be held at 7:30 and 10 o'clock, with special Sunday school attendance.

Dr. S. R. Bell, at Grace Methodist church, reported complete cooperation on the part of his congregation and stated that some 200 persons attended the service at 10 o'clock, with a special feature of the service being the singing of "The Power of the Cross" by the choir and orchestra.

Capitol Avenue Baptist church reported large crowds at every service, where Dr. Ellis A. Fuller is the visiting evangelist. Daily services are being held at 10 o'clock and 7:30 at night, with a special feature of the service being the singing of "The Power of the Cross" by the choir and orchestra.

In the Presbyterian churches, special revival services are being held nightly at the West End, North Avenue, Decatur, Kennesaw, East Point, Kirkwood and Rock Springs churches. Each night, at 8 o'clock, services are being held in the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, at 164 Trinity avenue, with Rev. C. P. McLaughlin in charge.

Inglewood Methodist church, at Inglewood, Ga., is holding nightly services at 7:30, with Rev. L. P. Read in charge. R. Z. Ryler, assisted by Sam Womack, local singer, leads the nightly services at Edgewood Methodist church, 101 LaFayette street, while two daily services, at 7:30 and 10 o'clock are held in many Methodist churches, including Calvary, Decatur, First, East Point, Inman Park, and others.

Rev. T. J. Christian, pastor of Calvary Methodist church, is assisted by Marvin Maxwell, local singer, who is conducting special musical services, while at Bethany Methodist church, the pastor, Rev. V. L. Bray, is being assisted by the special musical services conducted by C. C. Grover.

Briarcliff Troubadours
To Entertain Atlanta
Theater Guild Tonight

"Relentless Rudolph"—arch persecutor of "poor working girls"—will reappear in all his viciousness tonight at a special program to be presented at the home of Miss Harriet Noyes, 650 Ponce de Leon avenue, by the Briarcliff Troubadours for the benefit of members of the Theater Guild of Atlanta.

"Dirty Work at the Crossroads" is the vehicle in which the debonaire villain of melodrama will return to Atlanta. Little Miss Sylvia Miles, child actress, will appear in the role of the persecuted heroine. The play will be enacted prior to rehearsals of "Seventeen," "The Dover Road," "Clarence" and "Interlude"—productions to be staged by the guild during the summer.

Edmund A. Kneisel, widely known Atlanta song composer, will augment the entertainment program by offering his latest compositions, "Lili Feller," "Longing," "Dixie Moonlight," "Razzy Jazzy" and "Oogie-Wa-Wa."

Members of the Briarcliff Troubadours who will appear are T. J. Haas, Marvin Williams, Jr., and Bert Blair, youthful blackface artists, and "Smith Brothers, Trade and Mark," impersonated by Maurice W. Billy May. All members and friends of the guild are urged to attend.

LEGION FUND MEET IS SLATED TONIGHT

Argonne post of the American Legion will hold its initial endowment fund rally in hall No. 2 of the Chamber of Commerce building at 8 o'clock tonight, to which the public is invited.

W. A. Simons, post commander, has arranged an excellent program with Governor Clifford Walker, state endowment fund chairman; former Governor Hugh M. Dorsey, former Governor Nat E. Harris, Mayor Walter A. Sims and Dr. M. L. Brittain as speakers.

The commander will announce the

FOREMAN AND ECKFORD NEW NAME OF FIRM

Howell Foreman & company, local advertising agency Thursday announced that George Adair Eckford has been taken into the firm as a full partner and will continue to act in his present capacity as general manager. The firm is moving into larger offices in the new Wynne-Claughton building this week, where it will be known as the Foreman-Eckford Advertising agency.

Mr. Eckford has been with Howell Foreman & Company since a few months subsequent to the formation of the concern. Previous to that time he had been engaged in special advertising work with newspaper publishers in many cities and towns in Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi and the Carolinas. He has had actual selling experience in several lines and is regarded by many advertising men as one of the soundest merchandising counselors in this country.

In making the announcement Mr. Foreman and Mr. Eckford stated that although business is growing with this firm steadily and safely, the company is not moving into larger offices with a view to taking on any sudden rush of new business.

"We have learned in the school of hard knocks," said Mr. Eckford, "that advertising accounts can be built only through slow, but sure, progress of advertising and merchandising. Not low much but how well, you know. We are not prepared to handle any large number of accounts. Frankly, we are not ready for them. We have several high-class, financially safe and highly promising accounts. We are content to build with them for the present. When we get ready to service a new account we'll try to let folks know, for up till now not many prospects have walked in our front door. We've had to go out and sell them. But the big point is that once we sell them, we believe we keep them sold on our service of intelligent advertising."

Furthermore, we believe in Atlanta and its great possibilities and, in the advertising that is necessary to place it where it belongs—on top, Atlanta is well equipped with splendid facilities and that makes advertising in Atlanta a profitable and safe enterprise."

CHANGE OF VENUE
PLEA IN WRIGHT
CASE IS ARGUED

Arguments on request for a change of venue for trials of T. L. Coggeshall and E. W. McJellan, charged with the murder of Professor W. O. Wright, superintendent of Putnam county schools, were heard before the Georgia court of appeals on Thursday. It is expected that the court will give out its decision sometime today.

The appeal was based on the alleged tense feeling against the defendants in Putnam county. Their counsel are Branch and Howard, of Atlanta.

The two defendants, with S. J. Scarborough, were arrested near Athens two days after the school superintendent was found near death on a road in Putnam county. The three were charged with the murder and brought to Atlanta for safekeeping.

Later Scarborough was taken back to the Clarke county jail in Athens after he is alleged to have signed a confession, accusing his companions of the actual perpetration of the crime.

Judge J. B. Park, of Putnam superior court, denied the plea for change of venue when the case came up for trial last week, but the appeal to the court of appeals resulted in automatically postponing the trial of the indicted youths.

SALVATION ARMY WILL COOPERATE IN CLEANUP WORK

Cooperation of the Salvation Army in the clean-up and paint-out campaign to be waged in Atlanta April 7-19 was pledged in a letter received Thursday by R. F. Fraser, chairman of the campaign.

The letter, written by Captain Linch, of the Salvation Army social service center, called special attention to the fact that the organization would place its trucks at the disposal of the clean-up committee in carting away old clothes, newspapers and magazines, rags, and odds and ends that householders wish to get rid of during the campaign. Atlanta residents desiring to use this means of disposing of cast-off clothing and other articles are invited to get in touch with the Salvation Army center, or call headquarters of the campaign at Walnut 0845, where a secretary is in constant attendance.

A special meeting of heads of the various committees has been called for 4 o'clock this afternoon at room 207 in the Chamber of Commerce building to discuss plans for the campaign.

ASHBURN JURIST
URGES CLEMENCY
FOR MRS. HUGHES

Judge R. L. Tipton, of the city court of Ashburn, Ga., wrote the Georgia prison commission urging that body to recommend commutation to life imprisonment of the hanging sentence which has been imposed on Mrs. Ida Hughes, a woman who shot on Georgia's fair name to let this woman hang under the evidence in the case," writes Judge Tipton.

Argument on the petition for clemency will be heard before the prison commission during the week of April 9, after which the commission will make its recommendation to Governor Walker. Mrs. Hughes is under sentence to hang in Fulton tower on April 21.

Floods of letters, nearly all urging clemency, arrive daily both at the office of the prison commission and Governor Walker.

JURY FREES MAN OF RUM CHARGE
IN TWO MINUTES

T. C. Werner, charged with violation of the liquor laws, Thursday was freed by a jury after two minutes' deliberation, thus establishing a record in Fulton county so far as prohibition cases are concerned.

Werner was placed on trial in Judge E. D. Thomas' court. The defendant was taken recently in a raid on the home of his sister-in-law on Martin street, where he is said to have been staying for a few days while the sister-in-law was in the hospital. A pint of liquor was found, officers said.

LIGHT SHOWERS PROBABLE TODAY, SAYS FORECASTER

Although continuation of the warm temperatures enjoyed by Atlantans during the past several days is predicted for today by C. F. von Herrmann, head of the local United States weather bureau, there is a possibility of cloudy weather and light showers.

The mercury climbed to 76 degrees Thursday, registering the highest at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. In view of the prospect for today, carrying an umbrella will not be a bad idea. It is almost hot to develop, the sun will be almost hot enough to require use of a "rainstick."

Chamber of Commerce
Publishes New Booklet
Of Facts on Industry

The Atlanta chamber of commerce, Thursday, issued a booklet illustrating the strategic position of the city as the south's manufacturing and distributing center as compiled through the industrial survey of Lamar Lyndon, nationally known engineer, co-operating with Frederick T. Newell, secretary of the chamber's industrial bureau.

The publication will be given wide distribution over the country. It was stated that the information and facts included in it are prepared especially for the benefit of site-seeking corporations.

The inauguration of a program of industrial activities for 1925 will be discussed at a meeting at 12:30 o'clock today of the industrial committee of the chamber of commerce, in the Commerce building.

The committee is composed of H. D. Hollman, chairman; C. Howard Cantrell, Thomas Scott, W. H. Brittain, B. Griffin Hood, Frank L. Butler, Robert R. Otis and J. E. C. Pedder.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR HOLLIS PICKETT

Funeral services for Hollis M. Pickett, 22, of 254 North Boulevard avenue, who died Tuesday at a private hospital in Miami, Fla., of injuries received in an automobile accident on the streets of that city, will be held at 3 o'clock today, from the chapel of Atwell & Lowndes, Dr. Wallace Rogers, assisted by the Rev. W. T. Watkins, officiating. Interment will be in Crestlawn cemetery.

In addition to his widow he is survived by a daughter, Marjorie Pickett; a son, Hollis Pickett, Jr., and two brothers, Jack D. and J. Windsor Pickett.

JURY SUSTAINS WILL OF SAMUEL GOMPERS

Washington, March 26.—The will of Samuel Gompers was sustained today by a jury in the District of Columbia supreme court, which decided against the charge of Mrs. Gertrude A. Gompers, the widow, that the labor leader had been unduly influenced.

Attorneys for Mrs. Gompers, who had previously announced she would not further oppose the will, were present, but offered no testimony. Mrs. Gompers was left a sum equal to her dower rights in an estate of about $40,000.

plan by R. W. Torras, engineer and secretary of the planning commission, is a revision of the present continuous numbering system. However, it would eliminate all of defects of the system now in use and would be much more comprehensive.

Plan of R. W. Torras. Under Mr. Torras' plan, all houses would be numbered from east-west and north-south base lines. He has selected West Peachtree, Peachtree and Pryor streets as his north-south base line, and West Hunter street, Edgewood avenue and Boulevard De Kalb as the east-west line. Each street crossing one of those lines would be numbered from the line, while streets beginning several blocks from that line would be numbered to correspond with parallel streets which do cross the base line.

The other system is the century or block plan, and sketches have been drawn by C. E. Kauffman, engineer in charge of bridges in the construction department. It also would be built from base lines, but each block would be numbered separately. For instance the first block from a base line would be the 100 block, the second the 200 block, and so forth.

Mr. Kauffman has selected West Peachtree, Peachtree and Capitol avenue as his north-south base line, and West Hunter, Edgewood and Harlee street as the east-west line.

Both Systems Improvement. Both systems, according to members of the planning commission who have studied them, have advantages and disadvantages, but both are said to be vastly superior to the present system.

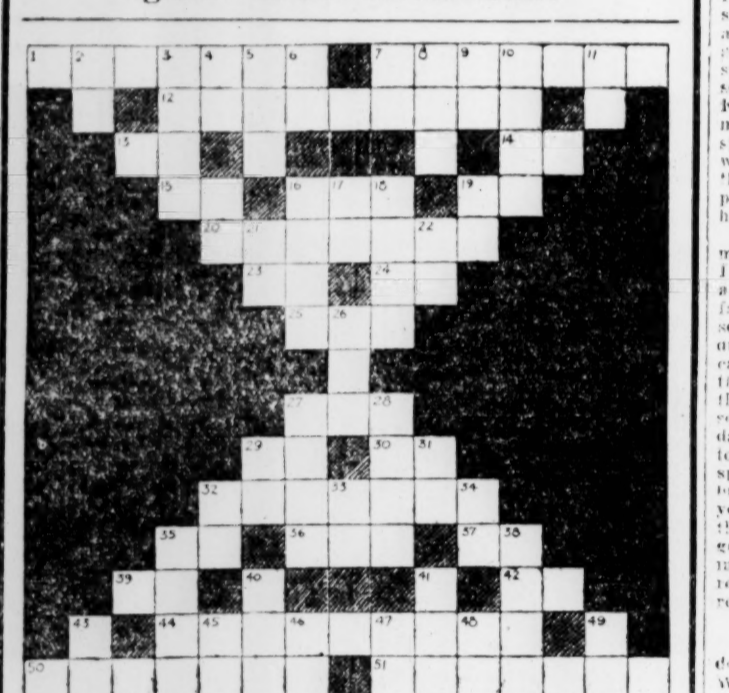

That some definite action will be taken is certain, and present plans of the commission call for preparing a recommendation on the system to be adopted in time for presentation at the next meeting of council.

A change in numbering has been requested by practically all of the city's retail merchants, postoffice officials, the telephone and express companies and by many individuals, as the system now in use is very confusing, and there are many duplicated numbers.

T. E. McLEMORE HEADS SIGMA DELTA KAPPA

Thomas E. McLemore, Atlanta lawyer, was elected leader of the Sigma Delta Kappa fraternity of the Atlanta law school at its recent annual meeting. Other officers are: W. C. Hume, vice-chancellor; J. R. Bell, secretary; H. L. Fields, treasurer; J. E. Jones, hallmaster. The chapter is a unit of a national legal fraternity which has branches in all the leading law colleges and schools in the country.

Observe the Following Rules:

The contest is open to everyone. There are no restrictions of any sort as to who may enter.

In determining winners, accuracy will be the first consideration. Solutions must correspond with the solution in the custody of the judges.

Each solution must be accompanied by an essay on any subject you choose. It should be as brief as possible, but should contain as many as possible of the horizontal words used in the puzzle. Other words are to be used, of course, but be sure you include as many of the horizontal words as possible.

In writing your essay, be sure to underline the words used which appear in the puzzle. This should be done in order to make the work of the judges more simple.

The excellence of the essay and the neatness and care with which it is prepared will also be determining factors in selecting the winners.

All solutions and essays must be in our hands not later than noon, Saturday, March 28, 1925, and no answers received after that time will be considered.

MAIL YOUR ANSWER AND ESSAY TO CROSS-WORD PUZZLE EDITOR, 22 Edgewood Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

The judges in the contest shall consist of the Cross-Word Puzzle Editor and his assistants, and their decisions shall be considered final.

PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED AS FOLLOWS:

FIRST PRIZE $25.00 FOURTH PRIZE ... $ 3.00
SECOND PRIZE $10.00 FIFTH PRIZE $ 2.00
THIRD PRIZE $ 5.00 6th to 10th Prizes $1.00 Ea.

In the event of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

Expulsion of La Follette From Old Capitol Offices Balm to His Insurgency

Slap at Western Senators by Regulars Responsible for Defeat of Warren's Nomination.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, March 26.—When Senator Robert M. La Follette moved out of that committee room near the center of the capitol, which has been his for many years, one tried to guess just how much it is meaning and what it forecasts.

La Follette held it by virtue of being chairman of one committee and high on many others. He loses it by reason of the decision to the bottom of committee lists which the republican party visited upon him and his fellow insurgent senators. In terms of landlord and tenant, he is expelled for failure to pay the rent in loyalty.

Merca of Insurgents. For years that committee room near the capitol steps has been the sanctuary of insurgents, radicals, progressives, the Merca of lost causes and causes that never got a start. Nearly every important progressive or radical in the country, nearly all of those vital characters whose temperament or whose traits of intellect would not let them conform, nearly all of such, at one time or another, during 20 years, must have sat in that room with La Follette, planned with him, mingled their vehement indignation with his, received from him the stimulus of his unbending spirit or revolt.

Does the change, which is the visible symbol of the republican party's split—does that mean death to the spirit for which La Follette stood, or is it one of the next steps preceding resurrection? La Follette, one can be sure, does not regard it as death, either for his spirit or for the cause he is representing. To La Follette, frequent martyrdom is the beloved of freedom. La Follette, indeed, comes close to being that type of nonconformist who regards martyrdom as a certain sign that his cause is right; the type who some times seem to regard martyrdom as a luxury, and the only kind of luxury worth while to their four souls.

Way to Path of Grace. To La Follette and all his supporters that is the path of grace. To La Follette this enforced exile is merely the turn of the wheel that brings him home again, the return of a gallant and adventurous spirit from wide wanderings back to the spot where he stood 20 years ago as a vital and comparatively youthful senator. When he made his last speech, all the rest of the republican senators walked out, leaving only Keen, of New Jersey, on guard to make points of order, and La Follette, instead of being broken by spirit, instead of being broken by the agreeable feeling, first of being proved to be right, and second, of home-coming to the family.

But however La Follette's spirit may be exalted, one wonders whether La Follette physically is disturbed and pressed by this exile from the familiar, from the dumpy, leather-seated chair, the desk piled high with disordered papers, the cool dimness of the room under the capitol steps, sometimes behind locked doors, for days at a time, denying himself even to his fellow insurgents. A man's spirit may be as gallant as it will, but a man's body forms habits in 20 years. His senses give out tentacles that cling to familiar walls, that grope for the seat that fits, yearning instinctively for the intimate surroundings that have given peace and rest in times of strife and turmoil.

Some Regret Action. All that is personal. But what does it mean to the republican party? What public meaning has it in the politics of the country? Both on the day it was done, told the regular republicans they would regret it. Some of them regret it already. Some, indeed, opposed its being done, and their "I told you so" is one of the rather large aggregation of alibis now in high demand for explaining the flouting of Coolidge through the rejection of Warren and La Follette, a republican president in a position of greater inferiority as regards the senate than has happened in nearly 70 years. There is more than a score might have been alibi in this. There is substantial reason to believe that but for the expulsion of the insurgents, Warren might have got the one vote, or the one vote might have been given for the sake of Coolidge, which, at the time of the first roll call, would have made Coolidge's prestige safe.

It is not merely that one of the expelled might have his vote, but for the humiliation that was recent and galling to their spirits. Besides the four expelled, there were five other republican senators—all from the northwest—who are not against Warren. These five are not insurgents. Their aberration from the republican party goes only to the extent of being occasionally absent without leave. The votes they cast against Warren were affected only partially by the sense of their occasional comradeship with the outlaws. Partly, these five had a sense they were doing what their northwestern constituents would demand they should do; what it would have been dangerous to them in their home constituencies to fail to do.

Has Basis in West. This combination of insurgency and near-insurgency has an undeniable geographical basis in the west. Between Wisconsin and go westward through a double triple tier of states to the Pacific coast, and in 12 states, just a quarter of the country, one or both senators voted against Warren. In that territory, insurgency is not all-radicalism. It is not even chiefly radicalism. To a greater degree it is a self-consciousness and self-consciously agricultural fight for recognition at Washington. Usually it expresses itself in a fight for dominance in the republican party, because normally that territory and that class is overwhelmingly republican. Occasionally, when the republican hierarchy denies recognition to the leaders of this section, it expresses itself by going democratic and sending to Washington a senator like Dill, of Washington, or Walsh, of Montana, who led the combined democratic and insurgent fight against Warren. To the republican party, these northwestern states are an important and sometimes indispensable part of its normal strength. Has the republican party found this territory more closely it by the expulsion, or has it alienated these states more greatly than before?

RETAIL CREDIT MEN COMMITTEES NAMED

Holding its first meeting since the southern conference of the Retail Credit Men's association, held here March 19 and 20, the Atlanta organization gathered at a dinner meeting Thursday night at the Henry Grady hotel.

Several important items of business were transacted, including the appointment of a number of standing committees for 1925, adoption of a motion to send the president of the organization to the national conference from year to year and instigation of a move to launch a "Perfect Member" contest.

Plans for the contest call for appointment of a committee to determine, at the end of each year, the member proving of most value to the organization during that time. Grading will be through points of attendance and actual service. The chairman of the various committees appointed are: Program committee, T. R. Everett; membership, C. H. Weimors; legislative, Eugene Siber; better relations, L. W. Asin; and publicity, A. J. Allen.

Work Begins Monday On New High School; Plan 2 More Schools

Work on the new $300,000 Fulton County High school will begin Monday, it was announced Thursday by the Fulton county board of education. The new school will be located at Washington street, near Woodward avenue, and will take the place of the present building on Whitehall street.

John W. Collins, dean of the Fulton county board of education, was authorized to employ an architect to draw plans for two new schools—one to be located at Chattahoochee road, and the other on Piedmont road, at the site of the present R. L. Hope school.

An appropriation of $35,000 has been made for the Chattahoochee school. No funds have yet been provided for the new R. L. Hope school.

PEACOCK AND COLLINS LUNCHEON SPEAKERS

Professor Wesley Peacock, dean of the Peacock school, and Rev. L. W. Collins, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church, will be principal speakers at the regular weekly luncheon at 12:30 Friday of the Greater Atlanta club, at the chamber of commerce.

Dr. Durham To Speak.

Dr. Plato T. Durham, member of the Emory university faculty, will discuss "The Racial Task of Civilization" at a meeting of the Civitan club at 12:30 o'clock today at the Ansley hotel.

Dr. Durham is a member of the commission on inter-racial cooperation.

Miss Mary Inman Peerce, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. D'Arcy Peerce, will provide entertainment for the occasion with a number of piano selections.

OPERA PATRONS URGED TO GET TICKETS TODAY

With the hour for the closing of the advance sale of season tickets for this year's week of Metropolitan Grand Opera close at hand, officials of the Music Festival association on Thursday appealed to all individuals for whom tickets have been laid aside to call at the box office at the Cable Piano company, 82 North Broad street, and take up these tickets at once. The season seat sale closes at noon Saturday, and any tickets which have been laid aside but not paid for by that time will be placed in the sale of single performance seats, which will open on April 6.

While the advance sale has been greater this year than in any of the more recent years, there are still many excellent seats to be secured. Patrons who desire the best possible location are urged to purchase season tickets this week, if they want to be assured of securing the best seats.

The opera week, with seven works to be presented by the Metropolitan Opera company, opens on Monday, April 20.

MERCHANTS TO SELL KLAN CIRCUS TICKETS

Nearly 100 per cent of the merchants in the downtown business section of Atlanta have agreed to handle tickets and advertising matter for the three-ring circus to be staged at Spiller Park the week of April 13 to 18 for the benefit of the veterans of the Confederate Soldiers' home. It was announced Thursday by the circus committee of the John B. Gordon Klan, No. 91, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan which will sponsor the circus.

"Virtually every merchant in Atlanta approached by our committee have agreed to handle the advance tickets and these are now available conveniently in all parts of the business section," the committee announced.

Proceeds of the circus will be turned over by the Gordon Klan to the Atlanta chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy to be used in improving conditions at the Soldiers' home. It will be produced complete by the Fraternal Circus company, an organization which has staged in the last two years monster circuses for the Shrine clubs and other organizations in such large cities as Indianapolis, Detroit, Milwaukee, Buffalo, Kansas City, St. Louis and the largest cities in the country.

As an added attraction a World's Congress of Daredavils will be brought to Atlanta to be offered in connection with the circus.

MRS. BROWN TO REST IN ATHENS TODAY

The body of Mrs. Edward T. Brown, of Washington, D. C., former well-known Atlanta woman, who died Wednesday in a private hospital in New York, will arrive in Athens, Ga., at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Episcopal church at 3:30 o'clock. Interment will be in the family lot in the Athens cemetery in which the body of her son, the late Captain Henry Brown, who died shortly after the world war, is interred.

Mrs. Brown was taken ill suddenly on a train between Washington, D. C., and New York, and carried to a private hospital in New York where she succumbed. She was en route to the home of her son, Edward M. Brown, of Forest Hills, N. Y.

In addition to her husband, Edward T. Brown, of Washington, D. C., she is survived by a son, Edward M. Brown, of Forest Hills, N. Y., and a daughter, Mrs. Benjamin King, of Washington, D. C.

Only 2 Exhibit Places Unfilled For Home Show

Only two exhibit spaces remain to be signed up for the approaching "Own-Your-Home" exposition, according to those in charge at exposition headquarters in the Silvery building.

All available space in the city auditorium, including the hall, convention hall, the lobby and the main auditorium, has been reserved for exhibits, and it was pointed out Thursday that this is the first time this has occurred in connection with the "Own-Your-Home" exposition, thus insuring the greatest show yet staged.

Exposition officials said that they expect to close all reservations within the next two or three days, which will permit them to devote all their time to arranging details for the opening on the night of April 6. An elaborate entertainment program will be offered that night and will continue throughout the week.

The exposition this year will be marked by features heretofore unattempted, both as to special exhibit features and as to entertainment. The musical and entertainment program will be a big feature this year, but of even greater importance, it is said, are the progressive educational and instructive phases.

Every effort has been exerted to make the exposition the most instructive and helpful ever held, and a number of innovations are now being worked out.

A number of valuable souvenirs will be presented to visitors. Among those will be an attractively illustrated book, book making, containing helpful instruction and suggestions on every phase of home making, from the selection of the lot to the decorating and furnishing of the completed house. Unlike other publications of a similar nature, this book deals with the subject from a local standpoint, treating of conditions and problems peculiar to climatic and other local conditions of Atlanta and its surroundings.

The book will be free to those who attend the exposition, and is part of the campaign to promote home ownership by showing the way.

The unprecedented demand for exhibit privileges is attributed to the remarkable results credited to the "Own Your Home" exposition, not only in benefits derived by the exhibitors themselves, but also in the phenomenal home building activities in Atlanta during the four years that the expositions have been held.

20 JUNIOR CHAMBER MEMBERS VISIT MACON

Twenty representatives and officials of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce left Thursday for Macon, where a general conference of various bodies over the state has been called, looking to organization of a Georgia state body.

JEW OF PALESTINE WELCOME BALFOUR

Jaffa, Palestine, March 26.—Lord Balfour arrived at Tel-Aviv today, and was accorded an enthusiastic reception. He apparently was in good health.

The freedom of the town was conferred on the visitor and a new street was named after him.

All the Jewish colonies along the Jerusalem-Jaffa road were congregated and the inhabitants greeted the party as it passed.

Particularly impressive were the scenes in some of the old colonies which date back to the eighties. Services were held in the synagogues and prayers were offered. School children paraded along the road carrying blue and white flags and singing the Hebrew and British national hymns.

Lord Balfour declared that the Jewish hills, which already have seen much, now were witnessing one of the greatest events in history.

CANDLER'S RULING MAY BE APPEALED

Washington, March 26.—An appeal probably will be filed with the College of Methodist Bishops in connection with the adverse vote of the Baltimore annual conference yesterday on the proposed consolidation of the northern and southern branches of the church.

Review will be sought, unification leaders declared today, of the ruling of Bishop Candler that one-fifth of the delegates could order an aye and nay vote. The question would be presented to the college at the May meeting scheduled to be held in Nashville, Tenn.

The decision was not expected to affect yesterday's ballot, leaders said, but might have a far-reaching influence upon the 40 southern conferences yet to vote.

Candler Ruling Surprises

Bishop H. H. Sherman of Nashville, of the joint commission on unification, in an address to the conference today referred to the Candler ruling as "surprising."

Dr. Sherman explained that he thought the ruling unwise because the general conference ordered a secret ballot, and you had decided by your own vote to take a secret ballot.

"This body had a right to fix its procedure by a majority vote," he continued. "It did this and then set aside the majority decision."

Dr. Sherman also explained today that he would not venture to assert what difference there might have been in the vote, had a secret ballot been taken.

Most of the business session today was taken up by the election of deacons and the admission of new preachers.

Among the most interesting cases of the young men admitted to the pulpit was that of William J. Elliott, of Leesville, Va., 32 years of age, who, according to Chairman W. J. Whitesell, of Berryville, Ga., chairman of the committee on admissions, had been an automobile mechanic and salesman.

"He said he felt called to the ministry," said Mr. Whitesell, "and was willing to give up his salary of $8 a day as a mechanic to take no pay with us." He was unanimously admitted.

The youngest admitted to preach was Harold Burress, 22 years old, son of the late Rev. Harry Burress, of Gathersburg.

Among the distinguished visitors to the conference this morning was Rev. Dr. Thomas Hamilton Lewis, of Washington, president of the Methodist Protestant general conference.

14 NORTHERN CONFERENCES VOTE FOR UNIFICATION.

Chicago, March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—Fourteen conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church have voted in favor of unification with the Methodist Episcopal church south. Dr. R. J. Wade, secretary of the general conference of the northern church, announced today. The question of unification now is before the annual conferences of the church and will not be completed for some time.

Ministerial votes cast by the 14 conferences showed 911 in favor of unification and 26 against. At the lay electoral conference, the vote was 599 for and six against unification.

The Baltimore conference, which yesterday voted against unification, 441 to 137, was the first of the southern conferences to pass on the question.

"The vote thus far in the northern church was announced as follows:

Kansas—For unification, 177; against, none; lay electors 111 for, none against.

Southwest Kansas—For unification, 208; against none; lay electors 88 for, 2 against.

Mississippi—For unification, 82; against none; lay electors 47 for, 1 against.

Louisiana—For unification, 120; against 9; lay electors 9 for, 3 against.

Voting on the admission of laymen to the annual conferences also is proceeding," said Dr. Wade.

The total ministerial vote for admission of laymen to annual conferences is 434 for and 452 against; the lay electoral vote is 505 for and 56 against."

At present laymen have not voted in the annual conference and by action of the general conference, the annual conferences are voting on the question of admission of laymen.

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE VOTES FOR UNIFICATION.

Norristown, Pa., March 26.—The Philadelphia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today approved the proposed unification of the north and south churches by a vote of 207 to 26.

The conference voted down, 23 to 188, the general conference proposal for admission of laymen to the annual conferences. The vote, taken in executive session, it was said, did not mean a direct turning down of the plan proposed by the general conference.

BAR TO ASK CHANGE IN SELECTING JUDGES

Columbus, Ga., March 26.—H. H. Smith, president of the Georgia Bar association has announced here that the 1925 session of the general assembly will be asked to submit the constitutional amendments embodying the proposal of the bar association for taking the judiciary out of the primaries.

The new plan as proposed by the bar association for selecting judges would provide a six year term of office; no candidate allowed to declare himself, but to be voted on for the second term; vacancies on the supreme court to be filled by appointment by the governor; vacancies on court of appeals and superior court to be filled by governor from list of nominees by the supreme court.

COUGHS AND CHEST

Colds Yield Quickly to Old Time Treatment

Physicians now say that the best treatment for a cough is not merely to numb the throat nerves as many cough medicines do, but to help Nature quickly throw off the cause—congestion and mucus. When this is done the severest cough is usually relieved in a very short time.

This is exactly the action of that old-time tried and proved cough medicine, Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey. Doctors say the pine tar is hard to beat for quickly loosening and removing the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing.

While the honey not only soothes the throat, but helps soothe the soreness and irritation.

But be sure you get the genuine Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey and not some substitute. Dr. Bell's is the original and has been known for many years as the best. It is a combination of the best of the pine tar, honey and other quick-acting ingredients which the best doctors have found in bringing quick relief. Contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, so can be given to young children—safe for all ages. If you want the best—a medicine that often relieves a stubborn cough overnight—get Dr. Bell's Cough Cure. It's all good druggists.

Lillian Gish Is Dumbbell About Money, Lawyer Proves

CITES INSTANCES OF HER FINANCIAL INCAPACITY

BY ROBERT D. LUSK.

New York, March 26.—Any girl who is engaged in a business—even if it's only the movie business—ought to know something about business.

Lillian Gish admits it herself.

That is the moral lesson of Lillian's latest starring vehicle, which is being run off under the direction of Judge Julian W. Mack before capacity houses. Thursday's episode was entitled, "She May Be Dumb, but she's got lots of cents."

B. E. Smith, Lillian's attorney, doing the hero stuff, put his whole soul into his part and the show went over with a crash.

Lillian is being sued in an attempt to force her to keep her contract with Charles H. Duell, a movie producer.

Thursday, Smith spent all day on the stand in an effort to show the court just how dumb his client is.

"She just doesn't seem to understand business or anything related to it," the attorney yelled.

"Why, once she forgot to pay part of her income tax, and when she did pay it, she paid too much and it required a lot of expert accountants and lawyers to straighten out the matter and get a $2,500 reduction for her," he said.

She had her life insured and started paying $75,000 a year in premiums, he declared. That was a job to fix.

She is one of the most consistent purchasers of fake stock in the country, Smith continued, and it was one of his tasks to get her name off the snicker lists and save what he could of the dwindling fortune.

Once she got into a disagreement with a newspaperman who contracted to write her biography, again, the legal advisor had to extricate her from the tangle. If a movie contract, she said, she would not sign it.

She stipulated that it could appropriate $10,000 of her salary each year to care for the cost of answering letters from her admirers on the other side of the silver sheet.

Perhaps the meaning of the lawyer's words bothered the demure Lillian. At any rate, she has decided that, in addition to now on, should know something of business.

as to the government theory of the relation of the Continental Trading company in the Teapot Dome case and as to the government's interpretation of the act of congress of June 4, 1920, under which leasing of the reserves was made possible.

TEAPOT CASE ENDS IN FIERY CLIMAX

Chicago, Wyo., March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Teapot Dome lease annulment suit came to a fiery climax that ended in the space of a few minutes today.

The climax was a high pressure verbal exchange between Owen J. Roberts, of the government counsel, and attorneys for the defendants, who contended that in referring to the testimony of Edwin Denby, former secretary of the navy, before a senate committee, Mr. Roberts had gone outside the court record.

The exchange started when Mr. Roberts was answering the charge by the defense that the government had not called all the witnesses it could have summoned in order to make an equitable presentation of the case. He was referring to failure of the government to use the testimony of Rear Admiral J. K. Robinson, chief of naval engineering; H. Foster Bain, and A. W. Ambrose, of the bureau of mines, who favored the Sinclair lease. Their testimony was used by the defense.

Roberts Makes Charge.

"Counsel on the other side accuses us of not doing equity by failing to call certain witnesses," argued Mr. Roberts. "They tell you that we put the mustard plaster of silence across the mouth of Albert H. Hays and Harry F. Sinclair by indicting them before this case came to trial. But when it comes to withholding witnesses, our friends here can give us cards and snafus and still walk away with the prize."

"You have been told by my friends here that the transactions of the Continental Trading company brought into the evidence in the case were 'perfectly legitimate.' All right, if they were, why does counsel not call witnesses who know about it and explain them? If they were legitimate, they certainly can do no harm to their case. Why, if they were legitimate transactions, does counsel follow these inferences of wrong doing, do continue in this case? Where is Denby? Why did they not call him to the stand and let him talk about the damning testimony he gave before the senate committee?"

Protest Against Charge.

Here Mr. Littleton and George P. Hoover, also of defense counsel, protested that Mr. Roberts was "outside the records."

"But you subpoenaed him," answered Mr. Roberts.

"No, we did not," retorted Mr. Littleton.

"But you notified me that you would subpoena him," said Mr. Roberts.

"That is true; but he was not subpoenaed," said Mr. Littleton.

"And there is no reference in this case to the testimony Denby gave before the senate committee," interposed Mr. Hoover.

"You had better take that back," Mr. Littleton warned Mr. Roberts, referring to Mr. Roberts' statement that Denby had testified before the senate committee.

"I don't think I will," retorted the government attorney.

"We object," said Mr. Littleton to Judge T. Blake Kennedy.

Judge Asks Order.

"Gentlemen," said Judge Kennedy, "the case thus far has been marked by such tranquility that it seems only reasonable that we should be able to continue it so."

"Well," said Littleton, "there will be fighting, but there will be no hitting below the belt."

Mr. Roberts finished his argument between questions of Judge Kennedy.

FOUNDER OF WOODMEN IS CRITICALLY ILL

Jacksonville, Fla., March 26.—Colonel B. W. Jewell, of Omaha, Neb., sovereign adviser and last of the original founders of the Woodmen of the World order, 35 years ago, who began their annual session here this morning, is believed critically ill, suffering from an attack of influenza.

Colonel Jewell was stricken while on his way here for the convention, but his condition did not become serious until this morning. Attending physicians at a local hotel, where he is being nursed, are saying "excitement attending the seeing of friends might aggravate his condition."

A party of 25 members of the Woodmen of the World accompanied Colonel and Mrs. Jewell from Omaha. The sovereign adviser was greatly interested in the success of conferring the 35th degree of Woodcraft, known as the "Republic of Pangea," on the candidates assembled here.

Over 400 members were present when the convention began its third day of deliberations this morning with Mayor John T. Alton, of Jacksonville, extending the address of welcome, with W. J. Roberts, of Pensacola, responding.

W. J. Fraser, of Omaha, sovereign commander of the Woodmen, declared the organization the strongest financial fraternal insurance body in the world, his figures showing an increase of over $100,000 for the past six years, with the total assets now placed at $119,784,508.

Fire Bug Climbs Through Jail Roof, Escapes

Wadley, Ga., March 26.—(Special.)—Bud Hammond, negro, broke jail at an early hour today. He was captured and admitted several of the recent fires which have been a menace to the people of Wadley for three weeks, the last one being last night, several hours before his capture.

He was lodged in the city jail, only to remain there until things quieted down, then he prized the ceiling of the jail and came out through the top.

He is charged with the following fires: Negro Methodist church; residence of I. B. Teams; a tenement house of Mrs. Georgia Hall; a barber shop; a restaurant; pressing and garage owned by T. B. Johnson; the cottonseed warehouse and potato house of S. C. Evans company; lodge hall and two dwelling.

The reward of $100 offered by the city is still in force.

ILLINOIS SCHOOL MAN TO TALK IN SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., March 26.—Carlton W. Washburne, superintendent of the public schools of Winnetka, Ill., has accepted the invitation of the Parent-Teacher association of Chatham county, and the Savannah kindergarten, to deliver an address here on April 7.

Mr. Washburne is said to have worked out successfully the "Winnetka plan" whereby every individual can progress as rapidly as his ability will allow.

MUSSOLINI RETURN SIGNAL FOR RIOT

BY FRANCISCO REA.

Rome, March 26.—Payment of the American debt—or part of it—was proposed in the senate Thursday, and while the upper house thrilled to its own sensation, the chamber of deputies staged a tumultuous reception for Premier Mussolini that culminated in a row and the forcible ejection of three communist deputies.

Mussolini returned to the chamber after more than a month of absence. He saluted, songs and war cries welcomed the chieftain as he entered the chamber with a firm step. He was pale and pale. The ovation was tremendous.

During a lull in the tumult, three communists countered with a loud rendition of the international.

Hurdle After Communists.

Then the premier saw a slight unique in parliamentary annals—a hurdle race. Enraged fascist deputies scoured the roundabout aisles as a means of getting at the scornful communists.

A free-for-all scramble over intervening benches brought nearly a hundred of Mussolini's henchmen on top of the red singers.

While it lasted, it was a grand fight, even if no one did get hurt. The fascists waved their fists in the air and shouted rebukes. A few blows were struck. The premier watched the proceedings.

Throw Them Out Chamber.

After several moments of what amounted to a host of demonstrators on all sides of the beleaguered singers, the fascist deputies seized the communists and unceremoniously threw them out of the chamber.

Senator Roland Ricci urged the debt payment. He proposed that the Italian obligations be amortized over a period of 55 years.

His current and budget cannot be stabilized until our debts are settled, both as to time of payment and amount.

He hoped America and Britain will be guided by correct moral principles, such as always have guided Italy. He hoped the United States has been cordially friendly with Italy. We never would settle with Britain without simultaneously settling with America."

War Burden Stupendous.

The senator said the Italian war burden was stupendous, owing to the removal, during hostilities, of 12,000,000 persons from productive endeavor. While Italian exports to the United States were decreasing during the war, American exports to Italy were increasing enormously.

The debt amounts to 1,631,000,000 lire, but the senator suggested a plan whereby Italy would have to pay less than half of this amount.

America profited hugely from the war, Ricci explained, and some of this profit came from Italian pockets. Italy could not afford to demand this profit from the debt total.

Subtracting 934,000,000 lire from the sum of the debt, Senator Ricci suggested 697,000,000 lire as the proper amount to which Italy should be considered indebted to the United States.

JARDINE GIVES VIEWS ON AGRICULTURE RELIEF

Washington, March 26.—Warning that confusion results from discussion of too many ways of helping the farmer, Secretary Jardine today outlined "a few simple principles that we all can talk about."

"I have no panacea for agricultural relief," he emphasized, "and I don't believe that anybody has."

"The most painful period of readjustment is now over and prospects look much brighter for the farmer," he declared. "There is real encouragement in the progress that has been made during the past two or three years. We can look to the future with confidence, but we must recognize that there are many phases of the agricultural situation that still challenge the best thought of the nation."

Cooperative marketing and standardization of agricultural production, he held, are necessary to eliminate waste, which he regarded as partly responsible for the spread of prices between producers and consumers.

Balanced production also is essential, he said, and he advised farmers in the northwestern states to devote some acreage now used for growing wheat to producing flax.

This country will need about 10,000,000 bushels more of flaxseed this year than it produced last year, he explained.

Jews of Atlanta Plan To Celebrate Opening Of Hebrew University

The new Hebrew university on Mount Scopus, Palestine, will open on April 1, at which time Lord Balfour, British statesman, will make the dedicatory address.

Jews all over the world will celebrate this event. The local celebration, participated in by all Jewish organizations in Atlanta, will be held at the Jewish Educational alliance, 90 Canfield avenue, next Wednesday night.

The program will consist of addresses by Pierre Van Henssen, of the Constitution; Mrs. A. H. Frohman, of the Hebrew Educational alliance; and local rabbis. Primary celebrations, participated in by the Zionists and non-Zionists of Atlanta, will be held tonight at the Ahavath Achim congregation during regular services.

Rabbi T. Geffen, Rabbi A. P. Himes and J. Dorfman will be principal speakers at these synagogues.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal tablet remedy discovered by Dr. Leopold and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Jacobs' Drug Stores and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the internal cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.—(adv.)

ROCKEFELLER REPLIES TO NEW YORK WORLD

New York, March 26.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., tonight issued a statement explaining his attitude on the absence of three witnesses, all oil company executives, whose testimony the government is said to have wanted in the Teapot Dome trial.

The statement is understood to be an answer to an editorial published in the New York World on March 23, which said in part:

"Mr. Rockefeller breakfasts at the white house and discusses law enforcement with the president. What does he intend to do in the case of his own company, where officers and directors have failed in their duty towards the government?"

The missing witnesses are H. M. Blackman, chairman of the board of the Mid-West Refining company; Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, and James E. O'Neill, former president of the Prairie Oil and Gas company.

The statement said:

"Only one of the men referred to is an officer of a company in which I am a stockholder. I have no definite knowledge of the facts in regard to his absence. I have done what I consider proper to bring the situation to his attention and have urged as strongly as my status as a minority stockholder warranted, that he take immediate steps to see that any just grounds for criticism were removed."

"It is as much the duty of the officers of a corporation, as it is of private citizens, to observe both the letter and spirit of the law, and in any company in which I am interested all the influence I have been and will be exerted to that end."

As regards the situation in question, I give place to none in my desire that the public interests be fully taken into consideration, and that all possible steps be taken to right any wrong that may have been done."

PRESIDENT PLANS EXTENDED CRUISE FOR THIS WEEK-END

Washington, March 26.—The lull in government business that has followed the senate's adjournment is already relieving the burden of work on President Coolidge, who has found it possible to plan a more extended cruise than usual this week on the yacht Mayflower.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge, with their son John, who returned today from Amherst college for the spring vacation, and several friends, plan to leave late tomorrow for a trip down the Potomac. The cruise probably will continue over Sunday, and present plans make no provision for a landing at any point. The president, heretofore, has been compelled by the pressure of his work to make these periods of relaxation much more brief.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge tonight were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. K. Curtis, of Philadelphia, aboard the publisher's yacht, which was anchored near the war college.

Federal Aid Highway Funds For New Georgia Projects Are Held Up Pending Probe

Funds for Work Already Approved and Under Construction To Be Supplied as Usual.

Washington, D. C., March 26.—(Special.)—Federal aid funds for new highway projects in Georgia will be withheld by the bureau of public roads here until an investigation is made of the situation in the Georgia state highway board, though funds for projects already approved and under construction will be supplied as usual.

The legal division of the bureau has begun an investigation of the present difficulties in the Georgia highway board. As yet it has not received the opinion of Attorney General George M. Naper, of Georgia, holding that all warrants, vouchers or other legal documents signed by two members or a majority of the board were proper. This will be examined when it arrives.

Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, in outlining this policy of the bureau in the Georgia situation, a resignation of the statement made by R. P. Thomas, division engineer, said that the investigation probably would require two or three days. Until that is completed, he said, he could make no statement as to what course will be taken by the federal government. He pointed out that as far as the bureau of public roads is concerned it was purely a legal question that is involved. The bureau has no interest in the local situation other than that the state highway board is functioning according to the law. If an investigation proves that it is functioning legally, then the funds will be continued. If it is not, it will be up to the state to make the necessary adjustments.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC AT HIGH FIGURE DURING JANUARY

Washington, March 26.—Freight traffic over the country's railroads in January, measured in net ton miles, was the greatest for that month in any year with the exception of 1923.

It was shown in figures announced today by the bureau of railway economics. The total of 37,011,620,000 net ton miles was 1.8 per cent below the figure for January, 1923, but exceeding that for the corresponding month last year by 7.3 per cent and that for January, 1920, by 5.9 per cent.

Aircraft Is Chief Defense Against Hostile Air Force, If America Is Attacked Anti-Aircraft Guns Pester, Hamper Aviators, But Are No Real Defense, Will Irwin Says.

BY WILL IRWIN.

(Copyright, 1925, by W. E. C. and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

Complacent and conservative military authorities, discussing the danger of the aeroplane to armies, navies and centers of population, always end up on one phrase: "For every new form of offense, we always find a defense."

To which a war correspondent of my acquaintance replied, "Yes, but it sometimes takes 400 years."

The rifle is perhaps a case in point. As soon as we armed our infantry with one-man guns, body armor, which had served well for protection against lances, pikes, swords and arrows, went into the discard. From that time until the 20th century, the best defense against a rifle was another rifle.

Two Defenses Against Planes. Against the airplane, we have at present two ground-based defenses, both used in the late war—the balloon net and the anti-aircraft gun. The first of these may be dismissed briefly. Balloons, carrying the heavy fabric of the net, cannot rise so high as even a rather poor aeroplane can fly. If the aviator knows they are there, he has but to rise above the obstacle and drop down on the other side. They are most effective, as things stand at present, when run up unexpectedly at night. But European constructors are already attempting to discount this possibility by constructing aeroplanes which will shear through nets. At best, nets will only "keep them high."

The air service, remembering the late war, regards cynically the anti-aircraft gun. A veteran of that struggle cannot picture an aeroplane working over the lines without its decoration of white or black shell bursts, which never seemed in the least to disturb it. Not one wrecked aeroplane in a hundred was even partially brought down by "archies."

Planes Indifferent to Them. After the first two or three perturbing flights, the aviator went his way indifferent to them. There were so many more dangerous things to worry about! Anti-aircraft guns and gunfire have much improved since 1918. They are shooting five-inch shells now instead of three-inch, with corresponding increase in range; they have multiplied their rapidity of fire. But so have the speed and agility of aeroplanes increased.

At the end of February an enthusiastic officer of the "archies" said to me: "We pepper a target at 10,000 feet." I was skeptical even then; merely peeping a target does not convince one who saw the late war. I remembered how the machine guns turned constantly from target with their wings full of holes and their fuselages scarred, but still in fighting condition. On March 6 the arches had a chance to show the congressional committee what they could do against a night attack. Virtually they did nothing. Their searchlights did not even find most of the attacking machines. Only one target was touched—and that by a machine gun bullet. The anti-aircraft forces were not using gas in the late war. But on the other hand, the targets could not shift and dip as do aeroplanes dodging anti-aircraft fire. The game remains what it was in the beginning—"shooting flying ducks at long range with a rifle."

Newer Devices More Deadly. Again, two devices invented or improved since the war give the bombing plane in operations against cities a not against armies, a new edge on anti-aircraft fire. One is the gliding bomb. As its name implies, it does not fall straight. It is winged, so that it cuts an oblique course. Probable this device is somewhat inaccurate; but in such an operation as causing a city, the aviator could afford to shoot at his objective "all over," like the inexperienced hunter at the moose. And a bomber using this device could pick for his operation any point within ten or twelve miles of his target. The aerial torpedo, guided to its objective from an aeroplane or dirigible hovering at a distance, would probably be more accurate and just as inclined to attack from anti-aircraft artillery.

One is forced to believe, therefore, that the ground-based gun in defense against aircraft plays the same part it did in the late war. It peters them, tends to keep them flying high. But it is still a very imperfect means of protection. Until we discover something new, the best defense against aircraft attack is other aircraft.

Hold Big Advantage. Those like General Mitchell, who want a united and independent air force, maintain that in another war—if it happens—hostilities will begin with a swiftly-joined general battle in the air. If one side wins decisive victory in this engagement, it will hold a tremendous advantage in any subsequent land or sea action. "The loser's eyes will be put out."

He cannot spot for his own artillery-fire nor spy out the dispositions of his enemy. More importantly perhaps, he cannot defend his cities.

Some of General Mitchell's critics, in rebuttal, point again to the expense of the late European war. Both sides had aeroplanes—thousands of them. But there was no great battle in the air. General Mitchell's faction replies first that aeroplanes were comparatively scarce in 1914-1918; most of them were needed for work of observation or of protection of the front. Few could be spared for a "strategic reserve."

One Great Battle in 1918. Further, though, it takes the eye of imagination to perceive it, there was such a battle in the air. The German offensive of March, 1918, started with a concerted attack on the allied air forces. Not until our aeroplanes were pretty generally driven down did the Germans move, and the blindness of the British and French in these circumstances was a main reason for Germany's success in the first stages of the attack.

This was a loose and scattered action; military men had in 1918 paid little attention to the air. The German offensive of March, 1918, started with a concerted attack on the allied air forces. Not until our aeroplanes were pretty generally driven down did the Germans move, and the blindness of the British and French in these circumstances was a main reason for Germany's success in the first stages of the attack.

Many of the points in General Mitchell's thesis are matters of controversy, not to be approved or denied by any mere civilian. But on three points he is probably right. First, the city or a whole nation cannot be defended against aircraft except by other aircraft. Second, in the initial stages of a war, a thoroughly prepared adversary will move down and air forces against his enemy's main city or cities; third, since aircraft attack with a speed greater than the traditional speed of the winds, one who would defend his homeland must keep a homogeneous, trained air force always ready to give the enemy general battle in the sky.

That is, of course, if the world goes on competing in building battle-ships before President Harding and Secretary Hughes put through their famous conference.

Air Race Luminous. Many of the points in General Mitchell's thesis are matters of controversy, not to be approved or denied by any mere civilian. But on three points he is probably right. First, the city or a whole nation cannot be defended against aircraft except by other aircraft. Second, in the initial stages of a war, a thoroughly prepared adversary will move down and air forces against his enemy's main city or cities; third, since aircraft attack with a speed greater than the traditional speed of the winds, one who would defend his homeland must keep a homogeneous, trained air force always ready to give the enemy general battle in the sky.

At Meal Time Snap Into It. Your Box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Enable You to Face a Big Banquet with Delight.

Those grouchy dyspeptics who throw a fit when food is fried can get back in the good graces of the family circle by the simple expedient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. One or two at meal time not only aid digestion but stop acid fermentation, clear away the gasiness, lift off the bloated feeling, end heartburn and make the stomach carry with ease the foods that used to apparently cause dyspeptic despondency.

These tablets sweeten the stomach of a dyspeptic by giving it the alkaline effect as in health. Thus, whether you eat corned beef and cabbage, pork, ham, mince, rice, buckwheat, baked beans, or other table horrors, you laugh at all fear and once again enjoy the freedom of a good eater in good company. Get a 40-cent box today of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and then tell dyspepsia to go hang.—(adv.)

CHANGE IN PENSION RULES IS DEFEATED. Ordinance providing for carrying last year's list of former city employees over for 1925 Thursday was adopted unanimously by the pension committee of city council. Passage of the measure would have provided for receipt of the same amount in pensions as was paid last year to 47 former employees.

The law was passed which were practically identical were introduced by Alderman Jesse W. Armistead.

Members of the committee took the position that the salaries of the applicants are deserving of pensions, others are not, and that last year's entire list should not be carried over without passing on each case separately.

Applications of Mrs. V. E. Harris, 72 East Linden street, and J. F. Anderson, 12 Hill street, were approved, while the committee referred a number of other requests for pensions back to the city physician with the request that he make definite recommendations.

Mrs. Harris, who is 75 years old, stated that she has been a teacher in Atlanta schools for 42 years. Her eyesight is failing, and because of that fact, together with her long period of service, her application for pension was approved. Mr. Anderson, who was employed by the construction department, is suffering from injuries sustained when a team he was driving ran over him. He was granted $37.50 per month for six months.

Pensioners who would have been benefited by Alderman Armistead's ordinance include 15 former members of the fire department; nine from the construction department; six from the school department; three from the park department; two from the sanitary department; one from the department of city hall; one from the water department; and one from the health department.

REV. W. T. ELMER, WELL KNOWN HERE, DIES IN VIRGINIA.

Rev. William T. Elmer, 70, retired Episcopal minister, a frequent Atlanta visitor, and well known here, died Wednesday at his home in Fredericksburg, Va., after a brief illness, according to news received here Thursday by relatives.

Rev. Elmer was a half brother of Mrs. John S. Candler, of this city, and has spent a portion of his vacations here for the past 15 years at the home of Judge and Mrs. John Candler. While here he delivered a number of sermons at the All Saints Episcopal church and Epiphany Episcopal church and was well known to a large circle of friends.

He was born in Marietta, Ga., where he received his early education, later attending Trinity college in Connecticut, where he graduated.

At the age of 65, he retired from the ministry after having served parishes in Louisville, Ky., Orangeburg, Va., and Baltimore, Md.

In addition to his widow he is survived by three daughters, Virginia, Ruth and Louise; a son, William; two sisters, Misses Ruth and Virginia Elmer, of Atlanta, and a half sister, Mrs. John S. Candler, of Atlanta, Ga.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Episcopal church of Fredericksburg. Interment will be in the Fredericksburg cemetery.

TOPOGRAPHIC SURVEY VALUE TO CITY SHOWN

Stating that the proposed topographical survey of Atlanta and Fulton county would be of inestimable value to the sewer department, the sewer committee of city council Thursday voted to ask City Attorney James L. Mayson concerning legality of paying the city's proportionate share of the survey from bond funds. Mr. Mayson's ruling will be ready for the next meeting of the committee.

The government has offered to provide men, instruments, and equipment necessary for the work if the city and county appropriate $75,000 to ward the project. Estimated cost of such a survey is $200,000.

Clark Donaldson, engineer in charge of sewers, explained that such a map would permit the sewer department to plan for any future extensions of the system, and would show exactly what size and type of sewer is needed in each particular section. The last map of that type was made in 1880, he said, and was the basis for the present sewer system. However, the system now has overreached the boundaries of the old map and a new one is necessary if the department is to continue its efficient operation.

Mr. Donaldson also recommended purchase of a Parsons severe trench excavator, and the finance committee will be asked to appropriate $7,200 for that purpose. He explained that it will reduce materially cost of all sewers, and also will save much time, as the machine will excavate a trench from 18 to 30 feet wide, and 10 feet deep.

Contract for building the Marietta street storm drain and the McLendon and Nolans streets storm drain was awarded to C. C. Case, Mr. Case's bid of $8,484.75 was the lowest of five submitted.

The committee also recommended laying of sewers on Beryl, Mortimer and Howell streets, and Rock Springs road.

PRAYER.—O Master, so discipline us that we may think thy thoughts with thee.

THE FOREIGN POLICY.

The news out of Washington that President Coolidge intends to call another general disarmament conference, in the face of the Geneva conference called for May, is misleading.

From official sources it develops that he has merely asked Secretary Kellogg to look into the feasibility of bringing the five naval powers together to revise and extend the agreement reached at the 1921 conference, the purpose to be definitely confined to sea power limitations exclusively, and only in perfecting and strengthening the existing agreements.

In this connection he does not propose to trespass upon the general functions of the pending Geneva conference, and is basing his suggestion on the fact that as the United States took the initiative in the disarmament agreement of 1921, it would be proper that the United States also arrange any conference necessary for a revision and a further schedule of sea power limitations. And to this program, and to this alone, he has enlisted very properly the good offices of Senator Borah, who is chairman of the senate foreign relations, and a bitter opponent of any cooperation with kind with any other power under league auspices.

The fact is it is by no means certain that even the five-power conference in naval limitation will be called. It is certainly not the intention to call it against the desires of France or any other of the sea powers which are signatories with the United States to the naval treaty framed at Washington.

Before anything can be done definitely the powers to be invited must each be approached as to whether or not they would be willing to enter. In diplomacy a most serious error it would be to invite any nation to any cooperative movement that did not meet the approval of such a nation. In that event a declaration would be tantamount to a complete collapse of the plans, thus materially weakening the initiating nation and making more difficult the ultimate eventuation of the purposes sought.

President Coolidge seems to be moved by an earnest desire to reduce sea armament upon such a practical basis that not only shall International war be made more difficult, but that real and not theoretical economy may result. In that the present five-power naval treaty is sadly deficient. While it places a ratio limitation on major vessels, it is so full of loopholes that all of the signatories have kept up their usual and, indeed, pre-treaty program of minor ship building, and to such an extent that no economy has ensued, and the preparations for naval war in reality become a spirited rivalry. It is this that President Coolidge seeks to remedy in a thoroughly practical and determined way, with the elimination of evasions.

As to the Geneva conference in May, it is known that Ambassador Sheffield at Mexico City has informed the foreign office of the Mexican republic that the United States government intends to participate. This conference is general and among other things is for the suppression of arms traffic. Similar notifications are being made to other Central and South American governments, the purpose being to elicit their respective policies so that a pan-American policy may be presented by this government.

This is a commendable move

and illustrates the activity of this government in cooperating, under the Monroe doctrine, with all of the governments of the united Americas, regarding a very serious problem in view of the frequent revolutionary uprisings that occur in the Latin countries.

On the whole the international policy of the president seems to tend gradually to a full and complete cooperative spirit, and the fixed determination to be at Geneva in May is not to be interrupted by a proposed revision of the 1921 treaty. There is no good reason to criticize this government for attempting to perfect that which it alone undertook. If it sought to hold a general conference of all nations with an agenda looking to a discussion of the many and varied aspects of all the armament problems in the face of the organized Geneva conference, it would open this government, which has rejected a league membership, to very serious criticism.

THE WEEVIL SURVEY.

The United States department of agriculture has made its annual boll weevil survey, testing out the live winter-carry-over weevils in all the cotton producing states, and finds that the "normal," which means the usual number of weevils, will emerge from hibernation this spring.

The tests only covered two counties in Georgia, and the conclusions were based on the cotton producing belt as a whole. This necessarily does not show the southeastern situation in its most menacing light, for the averages are made from tests in the southwest, where the fall months were dry and cool, as well as tests in the southeast, where the fall months were wet and warm.

And yet the department finds that "the weevils will be a serious control problem from the very beginning of the season."

The situation as to Georgia is much more serious even than the department has forecast from its general survey. It will be recalled that the Georgia growing season in 1924 was unusually favorable, which, together with more uniformly adopted control methods, prevented the weevil damage from being as heavy as in the preceding year. It will be recalled, also, that just at the beginning of the harvesting season, when weevil infestation was too late to destroy the crop, the dry summer turned into a wet, sultry, murky fall. This brought the weevils out in this state by the billions, and winter found them in hibernation as young, healthy and virile adults. There has been no weather sufficiently cold and lasting during the winter to destroy them. Hence they will come out in greater quantities than usual.

This simply relates Georgia and southeastern conditions. Therefore, with usual weevil infestation, as forecast by the government's survey throughout the belt, extending to the arid southwest, the heavy infestation in the southeast will be abnormal and unusual.

The farmer who is preparing to grow cotton and does not prepare at the same time for weevil control is preparing infinitely more for a failure than for a success.

THE MEMORY GROVE.

On Sunday next, the memorial tree-planting committee of the Woman's club will dedicate the mayor's memory grove in Piedmont park. This is a deserved tribute to the men who helped so signally to build Atlanta to its present great position as an industrial, commercial, financial, educational and cultural metropolis.

The Woman's club, active in civic affairs, has felt that the public park is the logical place for such a memorial, and certainly a more lasting memorial, nor one with a greater inspirational appeal, could not have been chosen. Such a grove, consisting of 40 oaks, surrounded by shrubbery and flowers always to be kept attractive, will be restful, inviting and beautiful. It will be an inspiration to the growing generation and to future generations to enter usefully into the civic and educational affairs of their city. They will see and appreciate, in the language of the giant oaks, an appreciation of strength of character, and of the many strong characters of history who helped to make Atlanta great.

A fitting program has been arranged for the dedication, and all the living mayors will take part in the dedication by giving an address on the greatest achievement of the deceased mayors will be invited to attend as honor guests.

A tree has been planted for each of the 40 mayors and will be cared for. Benches will be conveniently placed in their shade.

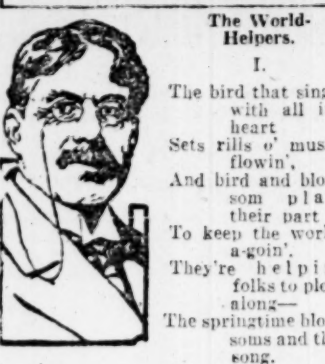

The work of the committee, of which Mrs. V. H. Krieger is chairman, deserves the warmest commendation. Its conception is most appealing and it has done its work most commendably.

A fellow can't expect to brighten the corner where he is unless he is something of a shiner to start with.

Georgians who go elsewhere looking for a better place to live usually lose the time and the expense required for making a round trip.

THE STRONG SECRET PLACES.
No matter how strong a man may appear, there are always times when he is very strong—times when he steals into some secret place of his heart and there, alone, he finds the strength of himself, and so often those who would weaken him.

Like the mighty giants in the fabled myths, there are times when he stands out strong and strong, giving a background to his aspirations and achievements.

And in the end a man must be measured by his strong points and not by his weak ones.

I have often come to the conclusion that the really strong man isn't a very showy affair. And I think that is right. In his presence you cannot talk about the failure of understanding. For such a man is his own interpretation. He is as mysterious as the stroke of a pen which just the minute that it is put to canvas, becomes the painter.

Economies fades in the presence of the strong man. His words, his bearing, his smile, his eyes, and his shoulders show the selfishness of those about who can only boast.

The innately brave man keeps his soul and heart close to him. He is not always misunderstood for it is at that, which, however, doesn't bother him, for his understanding is too keen.

Only he who has observed and lived among the strong and beautiful children of the wild and the forest is able to long for the life of the forest, where they live and dream in their happiest moments, moments when they near their young and sleep under the stars untroubled.

It's the same way with people. You can't mine for a soul with pick and shovel. You have to use the tools of understanding and tolerance as you go along. And you have to stand sympathetically and sweetly. Then you are led in and are introduced to worth and the treasured things of human life.

Never forget that there are unexplored spots and places in your own life as there are in your own. (Copyright, 1925, by The Constitution.)

Suggestions That Should Be Universally Applied

Editor Constitution: Preventable fire losses and deaths from drowning are more frequent than those from most fires. Most fires start in a small way and some are discovered at this stage. Prompt and proper action will extinguish a small blaze. Many people do not realize that a blaze must have air to continue, and attempt to extinguish it by fanning, which only acts as a draft does to the fire in a furnace or stove.

Everyone knows well enough so they would remember in an emergency that a blaze will be extinguished if covered with anything which excludes most of the air. Many fires would be avoided if this simple holds true when one's clothing becomes ignited. If all school children saw these facts demonstrated, they would not only be able to think in an emergency, but would inform the other members of their families.

Any fire chief would be glad to see that every school in this city is visited

Will the Dawes Plan Go On Working

BY WILLIS H. BOOTH,
President International Chamber of Commerce

The committee on economic restoration of the International Chamber of Commerce, whose investigations in 1923 laid the foundation for the Dawes plan, is now making a world survey of how to make it fully effective. The report on this survey will be presented at the great biennial meeting of the chamber, to be held at Brussels next July. Mr. Booth was elected president of the international chamber at the Rome meeting in 1923, which got this business plan, a reparations settlement under the way, and in this editorial he indicates some of the problems that the committee must meet.

The natural doubt as to whether the machinery set up by the Dawes plan would adapt itself to the confused situation in Germany has been set aside. It is working as smoothly as could be expected.

As the first result of the spirit of Germany has changed from discouragement to hopefulness. If not technically, at least practically, the German currency is on a gold basis and is in as strong a position as any other European currency. Discount rates are high and will probably remain so for some time. The large commercial banks are in good condition. Unemployment has decreased rapidly. About a year ago it was estimated at six millions. It is now probably not as much as half a million.

Taken as a whole, the industrial plant of Germany is larger and better equipped than in 1913 and the capacity for production seems unquestionably greater than before the war.

Payments called for under the Dawes plan have been made on schedule, or a little better than schedule. This year, however, is not a fair test as the entire amount to be paid is only one million gold marks and it was contemplated this would be paid out of the foreign loan and part interest on the railway bonds. The real test in this regard will not appear until the fifth year, when the standard annual payment of 2,500,000,000 gold marks is to be met.

In the meantime, the problems of production in Germany are associated with greater problems of economic readjustment. The peace treaty which broke up the Austro-Hungarian empire erected tariff walls immediately through what was formerly Germany's most productive area. Germany's greatest economic readjustment will be with France in regard to the iron ores of Lorraine, and this is in a very quiet stage at the present moment. On January 10, last, the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles which allowed the free import into Germany of the products of Alsace-Lorraine lapsed, and since that date a heavy tariff barrier on the new frontier has risen to obstruct the exchange of goods. The German and French governments are trying to negotiate a commercial treaty to meet this situation. Both are trying for advantageous bargains. Germany has always been one of France's best customers, and France has bought heavily from Germany. Neither can ignore the other commercially in the long run, but the embarrassing commercial relationships at the moment are obstructions in the path of normal recovery of both French and German industry.

For countries outside of Germany the operations of the plan have been beneficial and the resulting increase in confidence has been a stimulus to business. Exchanges have been strengthened, payments on reparations account are being made, markets were promptly opened for foodstuffs and raw materials, and of this business America received a most important share.

Briefly, then, the business principles upon which the plan was based are being justified. The most important thing in connection with the whole plan is the determination of the majority of the German people to make it succeed. The real problems will come in the next few years when it will be necessary for Germany to ship to the markets of the world large amounts of goods, from the proceeds of which reparations payments will be made without impairing the present business and exchange situation of other countries, particularly the nations to whom she owes reparations payments. Whether or not this can be done is for the future to determine. Our encouragement is that it may be done from the fact that in all of our post-war economic readjustments, human ingenuity has always been adequate for the task presented.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

A Holland magazine speaks of a revival of literature and culture among the people who inhabit Holland's most northern province, Friesland. The Frisians, the original Anglo-Saxons who speak a language very similar to English (though, of course, Dutch is the official tongue), were in time gone by, Holland's most imitable feature, lying the twelfth and thirteenth century ceaseless warfare was carried on between the Dutch and their neighbors on the other side of the Zuider Zee. Many are the historical tales bearing on that period, showing the courage and savage fury of the Frisians. Dekema, the last Frisian chief, when surrounded by the Dutch, repudiated the count of Holland among his close-pressing adversaries. He elbowed the Dutchman's head with the words: "Go and tell the devil that you must not molest me!" There is no trace left, however, of the former enmity and rancor. The Frisians were already Christians, and the Dutch, in the sixteenth century, were Protestants. Their province, known for its world-famous thoroughbred cattle, is among the richest, agriculturally speaking, and the Dutch, who are thickly populated in the country that the Protestant pastor at the village of Ezum could point the writer to 1200 church towers, the tower of his own church. The Frisian peasants still speak the ancient dialect, with its similarity to English. The men are perfectly built, blond and blue-eyed, and are even today selected to make up Queen Wilhelmina's body guard as they did 2000 years ago for Emperor Trajan in Rome. Frisians are intensely proud of their land, largely socialistic. This is due to the vote of the non-landowning peasants, who are in the majority. Emigration is lessening, and the land came to a great extent from this robust and worthy race, that dwells in Friesland.

Clandestine Papers.
During the war the occupational powers of Germany in Belgium suppressed the Belgian newspapers. Yet there circulated under enemy occupation a clandestine sheet, "La Libre Belgique," which kept the flame of patriotism burning and which, as the Belgians say, was a divine gift of endurance and its ability to escape destruction. Towns and cities were ransacked for the editors and printers, and the papers were destroyed. The same thing is happening in Italy today. Though the fascists have razed the opposition press, papers are appearing here and there of which the editors and printers have been seized, but which cannot be found. One of these sheets published in Friesland.

MAN SHOT TO DEATH IN HEART OF DETROIT
Detroit, Mich., March 26.—A man was shot to death shortly after midnight today at Cadillac square, near one of the world's busiest street intersections and within a stone's throw of the city hall, by one of three men who were engaged in an argument. The dead man is Earl Maher, 25 years old.

Maher and two companions were crossing the square when they narrowly escaped being run down by an automobile belonging to three men, the car stopped across the street and Maher, Brill and Stransky went over to it and remonstrated with the driver who was careless. In reply one of the men in the machine fired one shot, the bullet entering Maher's chest.

The gunmen then escaped in view of scores of persons.

HAY FEVER IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.
There are three seasons of hay fever in southern California, according to the study of the subject made by Dr. George Piness, of Los Angeles. The first season begins early in January and continues until March 1. The pollens mainly responsible for the trouble in this season being of the tree group, particularly black walnut, English walnut, live oak, scrub oak, Fremont cottonwood and Monterey cypress. The tree pollens are of rather large granules and hence not so great a factor of hay fever except for susceptible individuals residing among the trees. Out of some 200 cases of hay fever studied by Dr. Piness in the season of 1923, 23 cases were found (by constitution tests) to be due to these tree pollens.

The second hay fever season in southern California, provided no serious outbreaks intervene, begins as soon as the first season is over like the annunciations of WGR following a hard snow solo and carries the sad-sounding pollen along to the end of June. First among the pollens of this season comes that of wild oats—which are not so new in California, but just grown—and hard after the wild oats, bromegrass, canary grass, ray grass and Bermuda grass, with a dash of two or three orchard grass, red top and fescue. Bermuda grass, ray grass, canary grass, and orchard grass have practically a perennial pollinating season in southern California, so that one need not necessarily arrive in the spring to enjoy all the advantages of the climate. In the series of 200 cases 72 reacted to Bermuda grass pollen and 54 to ray grass pollen, although some other investigators have attributed most of the hay fever along the Pacific coast to ray grass pollen.

The third act—I mean season opens when in ordinary places weathers are deep in June, but in southern California folk are evidently up to their eyes in it, and keeps the audience in tears more or less up to about Christmas time or at least up to the time when the newspapers begin to remind us how many shopping days are not left until the bills will be brought to action. Pollens found to be able for hay fever in the June to December season are wild rye (a weed, not bootleg stuff) both the slender and Grant varieties, Johnson grass, ragweed, cocklebur, mugwort, and a few others. False ragweed (Franseria anthracinaria) proved the source of the hay fever in 76 cases of the series in this season. It is a shrubby plant, 2 to 3 feet high, with small white flowers, and is very common in the brush and on the hillsides. It is a native of the West Indies and is introduced into California by the sugar industry.

Of the entire group of cases studied, only 41 proved sensitive to a single pollen; all the rest proved sensitive to more than one pollen, some reacting to as many as half a dozen kinds of pollen. The individuals who reacted to several pollens were tested by a sterilized extract of a given pollen upon a minute scratch in the skin, and if the individual reacts a hivelike wheal appears about the scratch; if he is not sensitized or susceptible to the pollen no reaction occurs.

Since 87 per cent of the patients were multiply sensitive, they were treated with gradually increasing doses (hypodermically) of the pollens to which they proved sensitive. Complete relief was obtained from this treatment by 60 patients of the first season group, and by 44 of the third season group.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Wrinkles.
I read in a paper some time ago a beauty doctor's praise of olive oil as a good skin cream for wrinkles, and as good as any other oil, but if the idea is to feed the face, there is but one pore through which that can be done, the one between your nose and your chin. Wrinkles can't be removed; and if they can be prevented or postponed, it certainly is not by any monishness with massage or face dope.

Hydrocele.
Is there a cure for double hydrocele in an infant 4 weeks old, without operation? (F. C. J.)

Answer.—In many cases the condition clears up in a few weeks without any treatment; in a few cases it may be cured by simple withdrawal of the fluid; only exceptionally is an operation necessary. (Copyright, 1925, by The Constitution.)

THE FOREIGN POLICY.

The news out of Washington that President Coolidge intends to call another general disarmament conference, in the face of the Geneva conference called for May, is misleading.

From official sources it develops that he has merely asked Secretary Kellogg to look into the feasibility of bringing the five naval powers together to revise and extend the agreement reached at the 1921 conference, the purpose to be definitely confined to sea power limitations exclusively, and only in perfecting and strengthening the existing agreements.

In this connection he does not propose to trespass upon the general functions of the pending Geneva conference, and is basing his suggestion on the fact that as the United States took the initiative in the disarmament agreement of 1921, it would be proper that the United States also arrange any conference necessary for a revision and a further schedule of sea power limitations. And to this program, and to this alone, he has enlisted very properly the good offices of Senator Borah, who is chairman of the senate foreign relations, and a bitter opponent of any cooperation of any kind with any other power under league auspices.

The fact is it is by no means certain that even the five-power conference in naval limitation will be called. It is certainly not the intention to call it against the desires of France or any other of the sea powers which are signatories with the United States to the naval treaty framed at Washington.

Before anything can be done definitely the powers to be invited must each be approached as to whether or not they will be willing to enter. In diplomacy a most serious error it would be to invite any nation to any cooperative movement that did not meet the approval of such a nation. In that event a declination would be tantamount to a complete collapse of the plans, thus materially weakening the initiating nation and making more difficult the ultimate eventuation of the purposes sought.

President Coolidge seems to be moved by an earnest desire to reduce sea armament upon such a practical basis that not only shall international war be made more difficult, but that real and not theoretical economy may result. In that the present five-power naval vessels, it is so full of loopholes that all of the signatories have kept up their usual and, indeed, pre-treaty program of minor ship building, and to such an extent that no economy has ensued, and the preparations for naval war have in reality become a spirited rivalry. It is this that President Coolidge seeks to remedy in a thoroughly practical and determined way, with the elimination of evasions.

As to the Geneva conference in May, it is known that Ambassador Sheffield at Mexico City has informed the foreign office of the Mexican republic that the United States government intends to participate. This conference is general and among other things is for the suppression of arms traffic. Similar notifications are being made to other Central and South American governments, the purpose being to elicit their respective policies so that a pan-American policy may be presented by this government.

This is a commendable move

and illustrates the activity of this government in cooperating, under the Monroe doctrine, with all of the governments of the united Americas, regarding a very serious problem in view of the frequent revolutionary uprisings that occur in the Latin countries.

On the whole the international policy of the president seems to tend gradually to a full and complete cooperative spirit, and the fixed determination to be at Geneva in May is not to be interrupted by a proposed revision of the 1921 treaty. There is no good reason to criticize this government for attempting to perfect that which it alone undertook. If it sought to hold a general conference of all nations with an agenda looking to a discussion of the many and varied angles of all the armament problems in the face of the organized Geneva conference, it would open this government, which has rejected a league membership, to very serious criticism.

THE WEEVIL SURVEY.

The United States department of agriculture has made its annual boll weevil survey, testing out the live winter-carry-over weevils in all the cotton producing states, and finds that the "normal," which means the usual number of weevils, will emerge from hibernation this spring.

The tests only covered two counties in Georgia, and the conclusions were based on the cotton producing belt as a whole. This necessarily does not show the southeastern situation in its most menacing light, for the averages are made from tests in the southwest, where the fall months were dry and cool, as well as tests in the southeast, where the fall months were wet and warm.

And yet the department finds that "the weevils will be a serious control problem from a very beginning of the season."

The situation as to Georgia is much more serious even than the department has forecast from its general survey. It will be recalled that the Georgia growing season in 1924 was unusually favorable, which, together with more uniformly adopted control methods, prevented the weevil damage from being as heavy as in the preceding year. It will be recalled, also, that just at the beginning of the harvesting season, when weevil infestation was too late to destroy the crop, the dry summer turned into a wet, sultry, murky fall. This brought the weevils out in this state by the billions, and winter found them in hibernation as young, healthy and virile adults. There has been no weather sufficiently cold and lasting during the winter to destroy them. Hence they will come out in greater quantities than usual.

This simply relates Georgia and southeastern conditions. Therefore, with usual weevil infestation, as forecast by the government's survey throughout the belt, extending to the arid southwest, the heavy infestation in the southeast will be abnormal and unusual.

The farmer who is preparing to grow cotton and does not prepare at the same time for weevil control is preparing infinitely more for a failure than for a success.

THE MEMORY GROVE.

On Sunday next, the memorial tree-planting committee of the Woman's club will dedicate the mayor's memory grove in Piedmont park. This is a deserved tribute to the men who helped so signally to build Atlanta to its present great position as an industrial, commercial, financial, educational and cultural metropolis.

The Woman's club, active in civic affairs, has felt that the public park is the logical place for such a memorial, and certainly a more lasting memorial, nor one with a greater inspirational appeal, could not have been chosen. Such a grove, consisting of 40 oaks, surrounded by shrubbery and flowers always to be kept attractive, will be restful, inspiring and beautiful. It will be an inspiration to the growing generation and to future generations to enter usefully into the civic and educational affairs of their city. They will see and appreciate, in the language of the giant oaks, an appreciation of strength of character, and of the many strong characters of history who helped to make Atlanta great.

A fitting program has been arranged for the dedication, and all the living mayors will take part in the dedication by giving an address on the greatest achievement of the administration. The relatives of the deceased mayors will be invited to attend as honor guests.

A tree has been planted for each of the 40 mayors and will be cared for. Benches will be conveniently placed in their shade.

The work of the committee, of which Mrs. V. H. Kriegshaber is chairman, deserves the warmest commendation. Its conception is most appealing and it has done its work most commendably.

A fellow can't expect to brighten the corner where he is unless he is something of a shiner to start with.

THE STRONG SILENT PLACES.
No matter how weak a man may appear, there are times when he is very strong—times when he is steals into some secret place of his heart and there finds the strength that amazes himself and so often those who would weaken him.

Like the mighty giants in the fabled myths, there are times when he stands out strong and able, giving a backbone to his aspirations and achievements.

And in the end a man must be measured by his strong points and not his weak ones.

I have often come to the conclusion that the really strong man isn't a very showy affair. And I think that I am right. In his presence you can feel about the future and the standing. For such a man is his own interpretation. He is as mysterious as the stroke of the artist, which justifies the minute that it is put to canvas, becomes the painter.

Existence fades in the presence of the strong man. His noble bearing, his subtle virtue and shames the selfishness of those about who can only

The immensely brave man keeps his soul and doesn't lose it. But he loses his heart and his interest in the world always misunderstood it at that. Which, however, doesn't bother him, for his understanding is too keen.

Only flame who has observed and lived among the strong and beautiful fire losses and deaths from drown-

Will the Dawes Plan Go On Working

BY WILLIS H. BOOTH,
President International Chamber of Commerce

(The committee on economic restoration of the International Chamber of Commerce, whose investigation in 1923 laid the foundation of the Dawes plan, is now making a survey of the world to make it fully effective. The report on this survey will be presented at the great biennial meeting of the chamber to be held at Brussels next July. Mr. Booth was elected president of the international chamber at the Rome meeting in 1923, which was the first step in a reparations settlement under way, and in this editorial he indicates some of the problems that the committee must meet.)

The natural doubt as to whether the machinery set up by the Dawes plan would adapt itself to the confused situation in Germany has been set aside. It is working as smoothly as could be expected.

As the first result of the spirit of Germany has changed from discouragement to hopefulness. If not technically, at least practically, the German currency is on a gold basis and is in as strong a position as any other European currency. Discount rates are high and will probably remain so for some time. The large commercial banks are in good condition. Unemployment has decreased rapidly. About a year ago it was estimated at six millions. It is now probably not as much as half a million.

Taken as a whole, the industrial plant of Germany is larger and better equipped than in 1913 and the capacity for production seems unquestionably greater than before the war.

Payments called for under the Dawes plan have been made on schedule, or a little better than schedule. This year, however, is not a fair test as the entire amount to be paid is only one million gold marks and it was contemplated this would be paid out of the foreign loan and part interest on the railway bonds. The real test in this regard will not appear until the fifth year, when the standard annual payment of 2,500,000,000 gold marks is to be met.

In the meantime, the problems of production in Germany are associated with greater problems of economic readjustment. The peace treaty which broke up the Austro-Hungarian empire erected tariff walls immediately through what was formerly Germany's most productive area. Germany's greatest economic readjustment will be with France in regard to the iron ores of Lorraine, and this is in a very acute stage at the present moment. On January 10, last, the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles which allowed the free import into Germany of the products of Alsace-Lorraine lapsed, and since that date a heavy tariff barrier on the new frontier has risen to obstruct the exchange of goods. The German and French governments are trying to negotiate a commercial treaty to meet this situation. Both are trying for advantageous bargains. Germany has always been one of France's best customers and France has bought heavily from Germany. Neither can ignore the other commercially in the long run, but the embarrassing commercial relationships at the moment are obstructions in the path of normal recovery of both French and German industry.

For countries outside of Germany the operations of the plan have been beneficial and the resulting increase in confidence has been a stimulus to business. Exchanges have been strengthened, payments on reparations account are being made, markets were promptly opened for foodstuffs and raw materials, and of this business America received a most important share.

Briefly, then, the business principles upon which the plan was based are being justified. The most important thing in connection with the whole plan is the determination of the majority of the German people to make it succeed. The real problems will come in the next few years when it will be necessary for Germany to ship to the markets of the world large amounts of goods, from the proceeds of which reparations payments will be made without impairing the present business and exchange situation of other countries, particularly the nations to whom she owes reparations payments. Whether or not this can be done is for the future to determine. Our encouragement that it may be comes from the fact that in all of our post-war economic relationships human ingenuity has always been adequate for the task presented.

HAY FEVER IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

There are three seasons of hay fever in southern California, according to the study of the subject made by Dr. George Piness, of Los Angeles. The first season begins early in January and continues until March 1, the pollen mainly responsible for the trouble in this season being of the tree group, particularly black walnut, English walnut, live oak, scrub oak, Fremont cottonwood and Montezuma cottonwood.

The second hay fever season, which is a rather large granules and hence not so susceptible to individuals residing in the country, begins in April and continues until June 1. The pollen mainly responsible for the trouble in this season being of the grass group, particularly Bermuda grass, red top and fescue.

The third and last season of hay fever in southern California, which is a rather large granules and hence not so susceptible to individuals residing in the country, begins in July and continues until September 1. The pollen mainly responsible for the trouble in this season being of the weed group, particularly ragweed, cocklebur, mugwort and a few others.

Federal Judge Is Connected With Payments of Interest On Court Deposits to Son

Two Bank Officials Testify Payments Were Necessary To Assure Holding of Funds.

St. Louis, Mo., March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—Testimony connecting Judge Washington English with payments of interest on federal court deposits to his son, Faris, was given today before the congressional committee investigating the official conduct of the judge to determine whether it shall recommend impeachment.

K. P. Keshner, vice president of the Union Trust company, of East St. Louis, Ill., told the committee that Paul Schlaff, and Fred W. Henker, other officials of the bank, who had preceded him in the witness chair, and E. P. Ackerman, of the bank's bond department, had told him that they had discussed the interest payments with Judge English.

Paid Interest To Son.

Schlaff, chairman of the board of the bank, and Henker, vice president, testified that they regarded it as necessary to pay Faris English 3 percent on deposits by trustees appointed by C. B. Thomas, who in turn held appointment as referee in bankruptcy from Judge English, to assure holding the funds, which averaged from $15,000 to $100,000.

Fourteen checks totaling $2,700, unendorsed and made payable to cash, were introduced as exhibits and identified by the bank officials as those paid to Faris English to assure use of his influence in keeping the bankruptcy funds in the Union Trust company.

Account Transferred.
Prior to Faris English's employment by the Union Trust company, the three officials told the committee, a number of bankruptcy accounts were transferred to the Drovers' National bank in East St. Louis, where Faris became cashier.

After he was employed, the federal deposits gradually returned to the Union Trust, Mr. Keshner said. Faris' salary first was $175 a month and that he was "well paid," and that he saw no reason for the increase two months later when young English's salary was raised to $200 a month.

Faris was promised employment at $100 a month, testified Mr. Schlaff, with the promise that within three months he would receive $200 a month.

"Didn't you know he was not worth that much?" asked Representative William D. Boies, of Iowa, chairman of the investigating committee.

"Well, in view of the fact that those deposits were so closely allied to him, I was willing to overlook that," responded Mr. Schlaff.

"You were paying the interest to young Faris, the son of Judge English, in return for him using his influence with his father to keep the bankruptcy funds in your bank?" asked Representative Ira G. Hersey, of Maine.

"Yes, sir," was the reply. Representative Tillman, of Arkansas, demanded of Schlaff whether he thought it was "good morals," even though it was "good business," and the banker replied that he saw nothing wrong in it. He previously had testified that he offered Thomas interest in seeking the deposits, but it was declined.

Claim He Acted Independently.
Cross-examination brought out that Faris English married the father of two children, and lives apart from Judge English. It was intimated the contention would be that he had acted independently in declining the 3 percent interest payment.

Faris English resigned from the bank the first of this year, it was testified, after he had been informed he would be discharged for insubordination.

Chairman Boies inquired if Faris had not been discussing his connections, but Schlaff denied that was the case.

It has been charged that Judge English designated as federal depositories five banks in which he was interested personally, or because relatives or close friends were connected with them.

that they would believe him under oath. These included Fred Arn. Isham, naval paymaster, C. V. Lusk, John L. Meek and Harry Street.

False Teeth Emphasized.
The question of Miss Augusta Hoffman's false teeth was again emphasized today. For Mrs. Bennett, and Mrs. Taylor testified that Miss Hoffman wore two plates.

In cross-examination of Mrs. Bennett, the attorney general asked "it is not a fact that you saw that the cards and letters, supposed to have been written by Miss Hoffman after her disappearance, were forgeries intended to deceive her sisters, including Mrs. Bennett's mother?"

"It is not a fact," was the reply. An emphatic "no" was her answer to the query "Did you know anything about Miss Hoffman being murdered?"

Reporter Testifies.
E. T. Bayles, a reporter, said that he showed Detective Joe Paradiso portions of newspapers found under the basement of the house where the bones were uncovered and called his attention to the date of 1922, suggesting that this development would perhaps explain his theory that the skeleton was that of Miss Hoffman, who had disappeared in 1915.

The witness said that the detective asked that no publication be made of this discovery at the time. E. C. Seigel, who was present during this conversation, he said, agreed with Bayles.

Bank Book Introduced.
Documentary evidence introduced today included a statement of W. H. Bennett's bank account in 1915 and a record of loans made to him by an insurance company.

W. W. Draper, assistant attorney general, in the opening argument, discussed in detail the law's provisions as to circumstantial evidence and cited supreme court decisions on cases in which convictions were secured solely on circumstantial evidence. He was in the midst of an extended attack on the defense testimony when court adjourned.

Mrs. Bennett Denies Murder.
Mrs. Bennett, indicted jointly with her husband, W. H. Bennett, on a charge of murdering Miss Hoffman, today added her denial of guilt to that of her husband. Her testimony was much the same as that of her husband.

Mrs. Bennett told of Miss Hoffman leaving Chattanooga for Knoxville in February, 1915. A letter was received by Mrs. Nancy Bennett, Mrs. Bennett's mother, she said, asking that clothing be sent to Knoxville. She had taken a small handbag with her, said the witness. Mrs. Bennett testified that the clothing was sent and later Mrs. Nancy Bennett received a letter from Washington telling of her marriage.

Many Postcards Received.
Other letters or postcards were received from New York and Cleveland, Ohio. The last word came from "James A. Brown," in Santa Cruz, Calif., a postcard, saying "Gussie" had suffered an injury to her wrist in an automobile accident. The next address was given as Oakland, Calif. Nothing was heard thereafter, the defendant said.

Married 36 or 37 Years.
Mrs. Bennett testified that she and Mr. Bennett were married 36 or 37 years ago and Miss Hoffman lived in the family at intervals from the time of their marriage until Miss Hoffman left in 1915.

Relations between Miss Hoffman and members of the Bennett family were described as "very pleasant."

The witness said Miss Hoffman was high lace shod, and that the time on account of a tendency of her ankles to become swollen at times. Mrs. Bennett also said that Miss Hoffman had upper and lower sets of false teeth.

The defendant explained that she collected a small amount of salary due Miss Hoffman at the dressmaking establishment where she was employed, at the request of Miss Hoffman, after her departure. Mrs. Bennett said that she knew nothing of the so-called "365 check" cashed in Chattanooga in August, 1916, which she stated claims has a forged endorsement.

Knows Nothing of Murder.
"Do you know anything about Miss Hoffman being murdered?" she was asked by her counsel.

"No, sir," she replied. "Do you know any reason why you or any member of your family should have murdered Miss Hoffman?"

"None whatever, we were the best of friends," Mrs. Bennett replied.

During Mrs. Bennett's testimony, as Judge Floyd Estill was about to ask the witness some questions, Mr. Allison, of counsel for defense, filed a motion to the court to conduct cross-examination. Mr. Allison said he made his objection "with a great deal of reluctance."

"Judge Estill overruled the objection and continued to question the defendant briefly as to a postcard received 'en route to California,' mailed at Cleveland.

Son and Daughter Testify.
After the luncheon recess, the defense increased the number of its witnesses to four. Mrs. T. E. Taylor and William Bennett, of Rome, Ga., daughter and son of the defendants, testified.

Mrs. Taylor, who is now 24 years of age, shared a room in the Chattanooga home of her parents, with her great aunt, Miss Augusta Hoffman, and her grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Bennett. She said that relations between Miss Hoffman and other members of the family were "very affectionate."

Mrs. Taylor testified that her great aunt used upper and lower plates of false teeth. She continued that Miss Hoffman was subject to swelling ankles and that on that account wore high shoes.

Her clothes, she said, while comparatively few in number, were of excellent material. The witness continued her testimony by describing a playroom established in the basement of the Chattanooga home where the Bennett children and other children of the neighborhood played. The witness declared she never detected an unusual odor there.

William Bennett 28, followed his sister on the witness stand, his testimony agreeing with that of Mrs. Taylor as to pleasant relations existing in the family group and also in the construction of the basement playroom. He, too, testified that there was no odor noticeable.

GASOLINE HEARING WILL END TODAY.

companies are forced to increase prices when crude oil prices increase in order to live.

"Uniformity of prices proves the keen competition in Atlanta," Mr. Moore stated. "When one company is forced to raise its price, other companies do likewise, because they all operate on such a small margin of profit that any increase in crude oil prices, forces them to increase. They have to do that to live."

Georgia's Profit Large.
"The state of Georgia collects about four times as much profit on every gallon of gasoline sold in the state as the oil company that sells it does. This is in the form of the three cents a gallon gas tax. The state assumes no risks of the business in the transaction, while we struggle along making our three-fourths of a cent on every gallon."

Mr. Spaulding cited a case which was tried last year before Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of the federal court, in which the Standard Oil company was sued to prevent it from lowering the price of gasoline in the state.

"One time they are after us because we get too little for our products and the next they yell because we get too much," he said. "All this should prove to the court that a combine in our business is preposterous and that those who claim it exists do not know the facts. I know of no case where a superior court has been allowed to regulate or fix the price of any commodity in the open market. If such was allowed, a condition of chaos would exist."

Hugh Howell, speaking for the Continental Oil company, stated that if the price of gasoline is fixed and the price of crude oils advances suddenly, the smaller companies "will be driven to the wall and forced out of business."

"Gasoline companies operate now at such a small profit that they would be forced out of competition in such a case," he continued. "Our company makes nothing on gasoline, and it were not for other commodities handled by our concern, we could not remain in business."

"No court has ever usurped the authority of the individual to set the price of his commodity," Cam Dorsey, representing the Pan-American-Southern Petroleum company, told the court. "The owner of property has a right to determine what price he can afford to dispose of it for, and the court is not in a position to determine this, because it cannot keep well enough informed when the market fluctuates as the oil market does."

History of Case.
The petition being heard was filed by Mr. Napier and James L. Mayson, in behalf of the city of Atlanta and the state of Georgia. A temporary injunction preventing the raising of the price of gasoline pending the hearing of the petition was granted by Judge Bell. The point at issue is whether the court will make the injunction permanent.

Judge Bell's decision is expected to be hinged largely on whether the court has the power to fix the price of the commodity. Attorneys for the oil concern operating in Georgia desire this right, while Mr. Napier and Mr. Mayson contend that the court has jurisdiction in the case.

The following are defendants in the suit: The Standard Oil company, Gulf Refining company, Texas Oil company, Pan-American-Southern Petroleum company, Wofford Oil company, Reed Oil company and the Continental Oil company.

the merchants who are aiding in the exhibition of home-making, and no expenditure has been too great for them. All the workers concerned have had to do has been to express the desire, and it has been granted.

Mrs. R. H. Thomas, who has had personal supervision of the work at three days, the longest, states that she has never been given more willing and more effective cooperation in her work, and that is a most inclusive statement, because she has had part in shows given in some of the largest cities of the country.

The work, in a way, has been made easy this year by reason of the tremendous success achieved last year when the opening day saw more than 30,000 people jam through the doors of three houses.

Great Crowds Assured.
This year, with seven exhibit units in place of three, there is no telling just how many people will be in attendance and only advice the management can give is to come again if you find the throngs too big Sunday to navigate in some of the largest cities of the country.

All through the week last year the crowds kept coming and the total attendance exceeded 150,000 persons in nine days.

Another drawing power this year will be the opportunity of killing two birds with one stone—of viewing the wonders of the "Home Beautiful" and at the same time paying a visit to the first but certainly not the last to the new development in Atlanta.

It is here that four of the houses are located, and incidentally these estates are something more than a subdivision, it is in reality the very fine beginning of a town of itself.

The seven houses are located in Sylvan Hills, on Melrose drive; in Druid Hills, at 46 Decatur drive; at 5622 Morningstar drive, North Highlands; and at the Avalonide estates.

McIntosh, complete, for bonds, 379, against bonds, 1,021; total registration, 2,022. Camden county, two precincts missing, for bonds, 401; against bonds, 3; total registration, 684. Liberty county, with two precincts missing, also rolled up a two county in favor of bonds, the vote being as follows: For bonds, 420; against, 119; total registration, 752. Glynn county is the only one of the six in which the necessary vote are not secured. This county had a total vote of 949, and of that number only 274 voted; 234 for, and 38 against.

With 13,000 votes an unofficial tabulation made here tonight shows the result in the entire district about as follows: For bonds, 14,875; against bonds, 46,000. Accurate figures are impossible until the election is over. Heard from. Less than 11,000 votes were needed for bonds to carry the election.

History of Case.
Skelly's murder occurred shortly after dawn the morning of October 12, when he and another policeman entered the New Britain store on being told that crackmen were robbing the place. A man ran from the building as they entered, but his companion's voice shouted from the rear of the store, "Stand back or I'll shoot." As Skelly continued to advance, the crackman opened fire, shooting the policeman down.

Walter Sheen, son of a Springfield, Mass., hotel owner, was arrested a short time later and was said to have confessed to having been one of the two crackmen. His companion, he said, was Chapman. Sheen is to be a witness for the state.

Hard to Trace Poisons.
At several stages of the investigation, Judge Harry Olson has demanded that the bodies of his brother and "Billy's" mother be exhumed, but the matter has been delayed on the ground that it will be difficult to trace poison in bodies so long buried.

Mrs. McCintock died 16 years ago and Dr. Olson three years ago.

But with the indictment of Shepherd for murder and the confession of Dr. Faiman that Shepherd and he plotted to kill young McCintock with typhoid germs the manner in which Dr. Olson and Mrs. McCintock came to their deaths again took a prominent place in the investigation.

The coroner said that State's Attorney Crowe had requested the exhumations.

INDIAN RESERVE RAVAGED BY FIRE

rious loss on the livestock ranges of the region.

According to reports received here, the largest of the three fires extended over a front of 50 miles from White River, S. D., to Merriman, Neb.

Word has been received here that two towns in South Dakota—Tat-hill and Veto—have been completely destroyed.

INDIANS AND RANCHERS FIGHTING DESPERATELY.
White River, S. D., March 26.—Three prairie fires were raging in the Rosebud reservation tonight while ranchers and Indians were fighting desperately to check the flames. Three Indian villages had been turned to ruins by the blaze and one report received here told of a woman and two small children being burned to death at Tuffill, small town in Bennett county.

The villages reported swept by the flames are Veto, Tuffill and St. Francis.

The fires have already covered over 100,000 acres and were sweeping over the state border line into Nebraska. Urgent calls for help were sent out from ranchmen in the threatened district.

Heavy loss of farm and ranch property has been reported.

One of the fires, 15 miles southwest of White River, has covered a large area and has become uncontrollable due to the high wind. The second fire started in Washington county, 45 miles southwest of White River yesterday, and was still burning tonight. This fire has already covered a distance of 75 miles and is at the Nebraska line near Valentine, Neb. The third fire started this morning in the northeastern part of Mallett county, 20 miles east of White River.

stand did the prisoner evince an interest. Shown a miniature of a front view of the store, Hard demonstrated the manner in which its lock could have been unlatched from the inside.

As the witness deftly unlatched the lock with the use of a key, Chapman's head came forward, though he did not relinquish his languid posture of body, and his eyes followed closely every movement of the expert.

The fourth and last witness of the day was Miss Edith Larsen, of New Britain, who the day before the robbery and murder had been employed as a saleswoman in the department store. Her court, she testified, had been near the front doors of the place. From that point of vantage, she said, she had noticed a man—she was not subsequently identified in today's testimony—loitering about the open door, facing the lock. He apparently was tampering with the mechanism, she said, but of this she could not be certain.

Skelly's murder occurred shortly after dawn the morning of October 12, when he and another policeman entered the New Britain store on being told that crackmen were robbing the place. A man ran from the building of the first investigation into the death of young McCintock that he was suspicious and that he was confident his brother did not die from natural causes.

Dr. Olson died a short time after Shepherd visited his sick room, according to Judge Olson. Following the death of Mrs. McCintock, the physician was "Billy's" constant friend and adviser and was always distrustful of Shepherd, Judge Olson said.

The defense introduced a number of witnesses late today to prove Dr. Edwards' good character. The main defense testimony will be offered tomorrow.

RICH'S BARGAIN BASEMENT

Fine fabric rugs look their prettiest on these NEW pattern floors

HOMEFURNISHING stores are now exhibiting the NEW colorful floors of Armstrong's Linoleum. You should see these designs that decorators have planned—rich designs that architects have seized upon to create more beautiful interiors.

There are neat inset tiles, marble tiles, Handcraft tiles, close figures, Jaspés—colors and patterns to match your hangings and to show your furniture and fabric rugs at their very best.

These new floors are easy to have. They are quickly cemented in place by experts over a layer of builders' deadening felt. From a worn, shabby, bothersome, splintery wood floor to a smooth, bulgeless, unbroken surface of Armstrong's Linoleum is only a single day. Waxed and polished occasionally, such a floor is a source of beauty for a lifetime. Easy to clean? Instead of heavy scrubbing on weary knees, substitute a few light strokes of your dry mop!

Ask to see the patterns that are

New for bedrooms and living-rooms

This richly quiet, two-toned pattern is called Jaspé. You can have it in green, blue, brown, or gray. The heavier pieces of dining-room and living-room furniture look so well on its softly rippling surface. For the pretty bedroom there are a host of colorful arabesques, medallions, and close-figured patterns in genuine inlaid, or in the even more moderate-priced printed linoleum.

New for entrance halls and sun porches

Prim black and cream tiles, colored tiles in richly marbled combinations all inset by hand—what entrance hall or sun porch could fail to be inviting with one of these new floors? Handcraft tiles of green, gray, blue, and red; Dutch tiles (an idea borrowed from the ruddy kitchens of spick-and-span Holland); and granites of blue, green, and cork-tan. Be certain you see them all.

Beautiful linoleum rugs for those who rent—Ideal for summer use

In genuine inlaid or sturdy, long-wearing printed linoleum, the new patterns of Armstrong's Linoleum Rugs await your inspection. Fresh beauty of design, cheerful patterns. These rugs are really built for all-year-round wear; but many women plan to use them particularly in the summer months while their fine wool rugs are stored away. These Armstrong's Linoleum Rugs lie flat. There's practically no wear-out to them.

DIES EARLY THURSDAY

Mrs. Frances Gower Fain, 71, widow of the late William L. Fain, a pioneer citizen of Atlanta, died at her residence, 101 Ponce de Leon avenue, early Thursday morning. She had been in failing health for several years, and critically ill for the past month.

Mrs. Fain was born in Greenville, S. C., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Norton Gower. On her father's side, she came of distinguished New England ancestry, and from prominent South Carolina and Virginia families on her mother's side. She had been a devoted member of the First Methodist Church for many years.

She is survived by the following children: Dr. H. C. Fain, of Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. Lillian Sturges, of Greenville, S. C.; Mrs. Wm. J. Cross, of Greenville, S. C.; Mrs. Edgar Dunlap, Mrs. L. F. Dunlap, Misses Florence, Lucie and of Llantwit Major, Glamorgan, and six grandchildren, three of whom are still living. She is also survived by two sisters and a brother.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Edgar Dunlap, 4710 E. 12th Avenue, at 2 o'clock. Rev. C. J. Harrell will officiate.

Candler Names Subcommittees

On State Survey

Subcommittees of the special committee appointed by Governor Walker make a survey of the needs of the various state institutions, were named yesterday by C. Murphey Candler, chairman. These bodies, each headed by a chairman, are charged with inspection of various institutions in sections of the state outside the Atlanta territory. Each is requested to complete its work at the earliest possible date.

The full committee went to Athens last week ago, where it made a complete survey of needs of the University of Georgia, State College of Agriculture, State Normal school, and other state supported institutions. Following this it went to Milledgeville to inspect the State Sanatorium, State Prison Farm, Georgia College for Women and other establishments.

Full Committee.
The full committee consists of Mr. Candler, chairman; A. P. Adams, Safford, vice chairman; L. L. Sutton, Albany, secretary; Willis A. Tamm, Atlanta; L. L. McMillen, Bartow; R. B. Morgan, Washington; E. K. Wilcox, Valdosta; C. B. Smith, Macon; W. H. Davis, Waynesboro, and J. S. Calhoun, Cartersville. Personnel of the subcommittees and assignments announced on Thursday.

Mr. Candler are as follows:
Committee No. 1: Sutton, McMillen and Candler. To visit North Georgia Agricultural college at Dahlonega; state tuberculosis sanatorium at Marietta; Georgia Agricultural and Mechanical school Committee No. 2: Adams, Hoffmaster and Wilcox. To visit Georgia Woman's College at Milledgeville; Georgia Agricultural station at Tifton; Second District Agricultural and Mechanical school at Dalton; First District Agricultural and Mechanical school at Columbus; and Georgia Industrial and Normal college at Savannah.

Committee No. 3: Davis, Norman and Smith. To visit Georgia Medical college at Milledgeville; Georgia Agricultural station at Tifton; Georgia Agricultural and Mechanical school at Sparta.

CRACKERS READY TO START ON ATLANTA DIAMOND

Spectators To Be Barred From Atlanta Workouts; Niehoff Likes Winter Park

BY GEORGE CONGDON, Constitution Sporting Editor.
Winter Park, Fla., March 26.—(Special.)—The finest looking club to come out of spring training quarters of the Crackers in half a dozen years goes into its final training camp exhibition tomorrow, when Bert Niehoff's Atlanta outfit does battle with the Winter Park Athletics, the semi-pro organization of the little city. The Crackers will go into the game with every man hitting on all six, and "caring" to get back to the home lot in Atlanta for the heavy exhibition series arranged by President Michael.

Kinnere will be one of the pitchers to work for the Crackers tomorrow, and Jenkins probably will do the relieving job, although Cashman may get a crack at the doing behind the plate. Today the Crackers had one of the fastest, snappiest and best workouts they've gone through since coming to Winter Park. They started the work at 10:30 o'clock this morning and didn't leave the orchard until long after 1 o'clock. Then some of the boys were reluctant to quit the hunting games and fango knock-out that kept their sweat up. As the men checked in at the clubhouse for showers after the workout there was not a one who was complaining of stiffness or soreness, something to the credit of Trainer Bill Dailey, who has worked out the few kinks that showed up during the three weeks of training. Kinnere and Pitters, both twirlers, have been complaining a bit of soreness in their shoulders, but the cause of their complaint was removed yesterday and today.

Benny Left Behind.
After the workout most of the Crackers slipped over to Orlando with the hope of seeing Benny Karr, ace of the Southern league pitching roster, at work for the Cleveland Indians in their game with the Cincinnati Reds, but Benny was left at the Indians' Lakeland camp, in favor of Shantz and Sherry Smith, the latter a figure well known in the Southern league brand of ball.

The Indians whipped Cincinnati, 2 to 0, by getting off to a fast start. They scored one run in the first inning, with the best of both clubs strutting their potatoes on the mound. Shantz started for the Indians and then gave way to Sherry Smith, while Meyer started the receiving business for the Cleveland club, and Luke Sewell, formerly star of Alabama's baseball outfit, finished up with Smith.

Two of Cincinnati's best hurlers stung the apple across the platter, Donahue starting and letting the Indians score their two runs, and Evans finishing off for Jack Hen-

MAIDEN RETURNS AS STAR PUPIL MARRIES

Stewart Maiden, East Lake pro, who first showed Bobby Jones how to drive down the fairway and who taught Alex Stirling how to handle a masher nibble when both his star pupils were little children, is back in Atlanta after a visit of several months to his relatives in England.

Since the days when he gave these stars "kindergarten" golf lessons, they have gained national notes and reputations. And both are married now. Bobby took unto himself a wife last year and Miss Stirling was wedded to Dr. Willert Grieve Fraser, of Canada, Thursday evening.

Yes, the latter wedding had something to do with his return just at this time. Suffice to say, he is proud of both his pupils, who have won in cupids' game as well as on the links.

On the eve of leaving Winter Park to get in final work for John Martin's derby, it appears likely that the Crackers will come back here to train again next spring. No definite arrangements have been made, and it is only a guess that negotiations are under way for retention of Winter Park as a Cracker training camp. The skipper generally has considerable to say about such things as the location of training camps, and Bert Niehoff is high in his praise of Winter Park.

"We've found everything to our liking here in Winter Park," Skipper Niehoff said tonight. "I've been satisfied with the park, the town and the convenience of our hotel accommodations. If we should arrange to come back here next year we will have an enlarged club house and the outfield would be built up some. Then some play would be brought in to harden up the infield. But all that's the air, for we haven't made any definite arrangements for next year's training sites."

When the Crackers return to Atlanta Monday morning they will nap right into their uniforms and take their first workout of 1926 on the Ponce de Leon diamond. Work has been in progress there all winter with the result that the grass is in perfect condition, the whole park is drained by a system of pipes and the diamond can be made ready for play 30 minutes after a heavy rain ends.

Close Gates at Practice.
The exhibition games the Crackers play in Atlanta will be the only chances the fans at home will have of seeing the Crackers before the championship race is on, Niehoff explained tonight his reason for closing the gates at all practices in Atlanta.

"While our men are all in fine shape, some haven't reached the condition they will show on opening day," the boss said tonight. "I know the fans would like to look them over in workouts, but the trouble with that is that when one forms an opinion of a ball player, it takes mighty brilliant work later for that ball player to get a place well up in a fan's estimation. I can't tell how good a ball player is until I see him in the very best of condition and I don't want fans to

Yellow Jacket Nine Faces Furman This Afternoon

BY MACK THARPE.

Robert Alta Clay's Georgia Tech baseball outfit will start its second series this afternoon, with Furman University furnishing the opposition.

In the first two games of the season against Clemson the Claymen held the visitors scoreless, while they scored four runs in the first game and six in the last.

The Furman nine proved its strength by winning from the strong University of Georgia team in a ten-inning contest Wednesday and repeating Thursday. Furman gathered a total of 19 hits Wednesday off the Bulldog offerings, and 7 Thursday. This assures the fans a slugging contest, since the Jackets have already built a reputation along the swatting line.

Scorp Enloe or Johnny Conn will no doubt draw the hurling assignment in Friday's game. Scorp pitched the first game against the Clemson Tigers, giving up only three hits, and not allowing a runner to cross the plate. Johnny Conn, who is somewhat of a newcomer, proved his ability in the second game against the Tigers, only allowing four safeties during the nine innings, these coming in the last of the game.

The Tech and Georgia supporters no doubt will watch the results of the Tech-Furman series so as to get a little advance dope on the games to be played between the Jackets and Bulldogs May 8, 9, 15, 16. Both outfits have already proved that they are to be strong contestants in the S. I. C. Should the series in May prove to be a championship affair, no doubt Spiller park would be filled to capacity.

The Tech lineup will remain unchanged for these games. Bob Moreland, who stepped into Reeves' place at short, seems to be a fixture, since Reeves gave way to a bad foot for the remainder of the season. Dynamite Wilder, forward on the Jacket cage team and utility infielder, has been showing up well this spring and will be ready to do relief work in the field should any be necessary.

Bluebirds Leave on Two-Day Trip to Macon, Milledgeville

BY GORDON KEITH.

Fourteen players, Coach Simpson and President White compose the Bluebird baseball squad that leaves this morning for a two-day road trip, the club meeting Lanier in Macon this afternoon and G. M. C. in Milledgeville Saturday.

The first of the local nines to swing into action, and these first games played by the veteran club will be watched with interest. The Bluebirds are out for a G. I. A. A. pennant this spring, and if the Atlanta players can win these initial diamond battles they will have defeated two of the strongest teams in the association and be off to a splendid start towards the coveted flag.

The men making the trip are: Hope Freeman, Butler, Medlin, Horshy Jacobson, Malsby, Himm, Spear, Henry Speaks, Kelly, Green, Powers, Turner. The team will line-up when the umpire speaks the magical "play ball" this afternoon with Freeman at first, Butler at second, Medlin at short, Horshy at third, Jacobson, Malsby and Himm in the outfield. Speaks catching, and either Green or Melleny doing the flinging from the box. If Green pitches this afternoon, Melleny will face the red-hot batters at Milledgeville Saturday, and vice versa.

The team is going down through the center in cars and will spend tonight in Macon. Saturday morning the squad will move over to Milledgeville, and spend Saturday have the chance to see the boys in workouts before they reach real championship season form. If they don't, the boys have a fair chance with the fans, although Atlanta fans are among the fairest minded I've ever seen.

After the game tomorrow, there will be only one more workout that will be taken Saturday morning, and probably will end by noon that will give the players time to pack their clothes and have a short rest Sunday before boarding the rattlers for Atlanta. Then Monday the work starts on the ball yard that will be the show place all season of 16 out of the 25 now here.

night in that city, returning home Sunday. Coach Simpson says his boys are right, and is expecting big things from his club. Unlike several of the other local teams, the Bluebirds have refrained from participating in practice games with other teams, confining their work-outs to their own squad, and this afternoon will mark the first time the Atlanta team has faced hostile players.

Two new faces appear in the infield, replacing the returned veterans of last season. Freeman, of junior high fame, has ousted Alley Wilder at first base, and Dickey Butler, stellar second sacker at Boys' high last year, has replaced Kelley at the keystone. The rest of the line-up is the same as last year, with the exception of Himm, a new man, in one of the outer gardens, and the few combinations are stronger than the formidable roster of a year ago.

NURMI FALLS SHORT OF RECORD

Buffalo, N. Y., March 26.—Paavo Nurmi defeated his Finnish rival, Willie Ritola, in a 5,000-meter match race, which was the feature of the games at the 106th Field Artillery armory tonight, but fell 14 4-5 seconds behind the record from the distance held by Ritola. Nurmi's time was 14:38.

Phil Granville, of Canada, defeated Ugo Frigerio, of Italy, Olympic 10,000-meter champion, in a 6,000-meter walk in the 106th Field Artillery armory tonight. Granville's time was 26:34, which established a record, there being no recorded mark for the distance.

WHITE KNOCKS HARRIS OUT

Gene White knocked out Eddie Harris in the second round of a scheduled four-round match in the main event of the semi-monthly smoker held at the Business Men's Athletic club last night. Both Harris and White are right heavyweights.

Early in the first round of the Harris-White bout it looked like a knockout for Harris but White was laughing on when the bell sounded.

In the second round White found Harris' chin several times and finally landed the K. O. For the short time the fight lasted it was full of thrills. Harris showed up well but lacked ring experience.

The next fight was between Tom Ellis and John Malone. This place in right field (the Cousins who made his college debut Wednesday) was hanging on when the bell sounded for the end of the fourth round. The decision went to Ellis.

Mayo Kayos Smith.
Hallam Smith was knocked out in the third round by Frank Mayo. Mayo recently came to Atlanta from Birmingham and has quite a record as an amateur boxer in that city.

Two brothers fought three rounds. These little fellows weighed only 75 pounds each and pounded each other a great shape with the pillow gloves for three rounds of two minutes each. Referee Goldsmith declared this a draw.

Two 105-pound lads named Kid Fleet and Joe Burns fought three rounds of two minutes each, the decision being given to Burns.

The Harris-White bout was refereed by Bill McGowan, who is to meet McFadden at the Fort McPherson bouts Monday night.

Little Ben Bonner, six years of age, gave a fine exhibition of shadow boxing and physical culture exercise. This little fellow is probably the best developed boy for his age in Atlanta and is regarded as a wonder.

He is trained by his father, who has made him work through the various exercises since he was four years old. He duplicates every move made by the older athletes.

A large crowd attended the bouts and all were well pleased. The next smoker will be Thursday, April 9.

VETS GUESTS AT FORT FIGHT

Soldier patients at the Veterans' hospital on Peachtree road will be honor guests at the final prize fights to be held at Fort McPherson Monday night, according to an announcement yesterday from Major H. J. Keeley, president of the Twenty-Second Infantry Athletic association.

The boxing show is the feature attraction of the sport program at the fort in celebration of the organization of the Twenty-Second outfit. Earl McFadden, the slam-bang fighter of the Fort Benning, will meet Billy McGowan, of Atlanta, in the ten-round main event. One of the best supporting cards yet staged at the fort was arranged, Major Keeley said.

The program will be opened Sunday afternoon with a polo and baseball game. The Twenty-Second infantry nine will meet an as yet unnamed foe in the diamond battle, while the fort polo team will tackle the Governor's horse guard in the polo match.

A track and field program for the soldiers will be held Monday morning and afternoon and the fight will climax the program that night.

McGowan is an Atlanta scrapper who has been winning with constant regularity since he placed himself under new management.

KANE-TUNNEY NEGOTIATION FAILS

Chicago, March 26.—After an all-day conference, Jimmy DeForest, new matchmaker of the Polo A. C., New York, left tonight for St. Paul without the signature of Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, for a fifteen-round contest with Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, at the Polo grounds, New York, on June 12.

Kane gave no indication that he would reject the offer, but pleaded for more time to consider it. He promised to meet DeForest on his return here Saturday, when the negotiations will be resumed.

DeForest went to St. Paul in an attempt to obtain the signature of Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, to a set of articles. Tunney boxes Harry Greb, world's middle-weight champion, in St. Paul tomorrow night.

DeForest said he had offered Kane thirty per cent of the receipts, which would amount to more than $100,000, as Gibbons' share provided the gate reached about $400,000. DeForest figures the match will draw between $400,000 and $500,000.

Tunney will be offered 20 per cent of the receipts, and according to advice from St. Paul, Manager Gibson will accept.

Atlanta Policemen TO STAR ON DIAMOND
Organization of a baseball team will feature a called meeting of police talent at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at headquarters. Sergeant J. W. Blase is manager.

The Atlanta Police club has been represented by a number of good ball aggregations during the past few years and Sergeant Blase states that he will strive to put out even a better team this season.

Savannah Pulp Concern Sale.
Savannah, Ga., March 26.—(Special.)—The bid of the Georgia Pulp company of $475,000 for the plant and assets of the Atlantic Paper and Pulp plant here, at Port Wentworth, is awaiting the confirmation of Federal Judge William H. Barrett.

The Massachusetts company is taking over the assets of the company.

Each Side Gathers Nine Hits, But Petrels Lose Out in Tenth Inning

BY B. H. VINCENT.

After putting up a weird exhibition of baseball in their opening encounter in Marietta Wednesday, the Petrels and the Ohio State nines settled down in their final game yesterday and battled for ten innings before the Ohioans were able to put over the two runs that gave them a 7 to 5 victory.

Both teams showed a reversal of form over their previous engagement and those customers who witnessed this affair were treated to a much better brand of baseball than in the opening game, although it may have been less exciting.

The Petrels presented a changed lineup with Clay Parrish on first base and Duke Terrell taking his place in right field (the Cousins who made his college debut Wednesday) was hanging on when the bell sounded for the end of the fourth round. The decision went to Ellis.

Mayo Kayos Smith.
Hallam Smith was knocked out in the third round by Frank Mayo. Mayo recently came to Atlanta from Birmingham and has quite a record as an amateur boxer in that city.

Coach Homer Chestnutt's freshmen proteges are slated to meet the Tech Freshies on Grant field today this being the first of a two-game series. The second will take place on the Petrels' home lot, Hermance field, Saturday.

The Petrel varsity will be idle the remainder of the week, but will renew activities Monday when the Dartmouth nine invades the home grounds for two games, followed by Indiana on Thursday.

Unlike Any Story You Have Ever Read

The Lost World

BY SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

SYNOPSIS.

Malone, a young London newspaper reporter, rejected by the girl he loves on the ground that he has no heroic accomplishments to his credit, goes in search of adventure. An appeal to his editor, Mr. Arden, for a particularly dangerous assignment, results in his being sent to interview Professor Challenger, a scientist, who had recently returned from a solitary expedition to South America, with an amazing story of adventure which no one believed. Angered, Challenger had also refused to talk, and assaulted anyone who dared question him. Malone, professing to be a student of science, succeeded in obtaining an audience. Challenger, a huge man with an enormous head, a heavy, black beard and following voice, glared at the reporter.

CHAPTER III—Continued.

There was a brutal directness about his methods which made evasion difficult. I must still make play and wait for a better opening. It had seemed simple enough at a distance. Oh, my Irish wits, could they not help me now, when I needed help so sorely? He transfixed me with two sharp, steady eyes. "Come, come!" he rumbled.

"I am, of course, a mere student," said I, with a fatuous smile, "hardly more, I might say, than an earnest inquirer. At the same time, it seemed to me that you were a little severe upon Weissmann in this matter. Has not the general evidence since that date tended to—well, to strengthen his position?"

"What evidence?" He spoke with a menacing calm. "Well, of course, I am aware that there is not any what you might call definite evidence. I alluded merely to the trend of modern thought and the general scientific point of view, if I might so express it."

He leaned forward with great earnestness. "I suppose you are aware," said he, checking off points upon his fingers, "that the cranial index is a constant factor?"

"Naturally," said I. "And that telephony is still sub judice?"

"Undoubtedly," said he. "And that the germ plasma is different from the parthenogenetic egg?"

"Why, surely!" I cried, and glared in my own audacity. "But what does that prove?" he asked, in a gentle, persuasive voice. "Ah, what indeed?" I murmured. "What does it prove?"

"Shall I tell you?" he cooed. "Pray do."

"It proves," he roared, with a sudden blast of fury, "that you are the dammeddest impostor in London—a vile, crawling journalist, who has no more science than he has decency in his composition!"

He had sprung to his feet with a mad rage in his eyes. Even at that moment of tension I found time for amazement at the discovery that he was quite a short man, his head not higher than my shoulder—a stunted Hercules whose tremendous vitality had all run to depth, breadth and brain.

"Gibberish!" he cried, leaning forward, with his fingers on the table and his face projecting. "That's what I have been talking to you, sir—scientific gibberish! Did you think you could match cunning with me—your wits with my wits? You think you are omnipotent, you infernal scribbler, don't you? That your praise can make a man and your blame can break him? We must all bow to you, and try to get a favorable word, must we? This man shall have a leg up, and this man shall have a dressing down! Creeping vermin, I know you! You've got out of your station. Time was when your ears were clipped. You've lost your sense of proportion. Swollen gas-bags! I'll keep you in your proper place. Yes, sir, you haven't got over G. E. C. There's one man who is still your master. He warned you off, but if you will come, by the Lord you'll do it at your own risk. Forfeit, my good Mr. Malone, I claim forfeit! You have played a rather dangerous game, and it strikes me that you have lost it."

"Look here, sir," said I, backing to the door and opening it. "You can be as abusive as you like. But there is a limit. You shall not assault me!"

"Shall I not?" He was slowly advancing in a peculiarly menacing way, but he stopped now and put his big hands into the side pockets of a rather boyish short jacket which he wore. "I have thrown several of you out of the house. You will be the fourth or fifth. Three pound fifteen each—that is how it averaged. Expensive, but very necessary. Now, sir, why should you not follow your brethren? I rather think you must."

He resumed his unpleasant and stealthy advance, pointing his toes as he walked, like a dancing master.

I could have bolted for the hall door, but it would have been too gnomish. Besides, a little glow of righteous anger was springing up with me. I had been hopelessly in the wrong before, but this man's menaces were putting me in the right.

"I'll trouble you to keep your hands off, sir. I'll not stand it."

"Dear me!" His black moustache lifted and a white fang twinkled in a sneer. "You won't stand it, eh?"

"Don't be such a fool, Professor!" I cried. "What can you hope for? I'm fifteen stone, as hard as nails, and play center three-quarter every Saturday for the London Irish. I'm not the man—"

Somehow we gathered up a chair upon our way and bounded on with it towards the street.

It was at that moment that he rushed me. It was lucky that I had opened the door, or we should have gone through it. We did a Catherine-wheel together down the passage. Somehow we gathered up a chair upon our way, and bounded on with it towards the street. My mouth was full of his beard, our arms were locked, our bodies intertwined, and that infernal chair radiated its legs all round. The watchful Austin had thrown open the hall door. We went with a back somersault down the front steps. I have seen the two Macs attempt something of the kind at the balls, but it appears to take some practice to do it without hurting oneself. The chair went to matchwood at the bottom, and we rolled apart into the gutter. He sprang to his feet, waving his fists and wheezing like an asthmatic.

"Had enough?" he panted.

"You infernal bully!" I cried, as I gathered myself together.

Then and there we should have tried the thing out, for he was overreaching with fight, but fortunately I was rescued from an odious situation. A policeman was beside us, his notebook in his hand.

SPRING. By Kid Boots.

(With a Bow to Florence Hazen.) In Spring the grass starts to begin to grow, leaves come out on trees that didn't have any on before, butterflies go around looking for flowers to sit on, fellows go around with no coats and hats on, fires go out and everybody that hasn't got a cold feels grate.

Some things that come in Spring are buds, Spring fever, and thawts of vacation.

In Spring the birds fly back from the south although they never even heard of April, May and June. This shows that nature is wonderful.

Another sign of Spring is when you come home some day and find the furniture all pushed different and the carpets all up and your mother with a dust cloth and a wild expression. This is known as Spring-cleaning and if you don't keep out of the way you are liable to half to beet rugs.

In Spring everybody goes around saying "Aint this beautiful weather?" in public and putting on life underware in private.

GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN! Meek husbands, henpecked as can be; 'Tis an amusing sight to me. I'm glad I am a woman.

When I see fellows work like sin Accumulating lots of tin. I'm glad I am a woman. I know that on some girl they'll blow. Like millionaires, that pile of dough. For candy, dinners, and a show, I'm glad I am a woman!

THE ARMISTICE. By Marion Harriman. Some time ago I took my pen And told the world, the world of men. I'm glad I am a woman. I couldn't let that Baxter chap Get off, Scot free, with his clap trap. And so I handed him a rap. I'm glad I am a woman.

When I hear fellows make the claim That they can manage any dame, I'm glad I am a woman. I'm glad I am a woman. I'm glad I am a woman.

When I see some guy who is a freak, Convince himself that he's a Sheik, I'm glad I am a woman. I'm glad I am a woman. I'm glad I am a woman.

Ever Growing Bolder and Smarter

PRINTS, brilliant in color, daring in design, indeed know no censor this season! Never were colors handled so recklessly to achieve such smart effects! ... And then, as though to tell the world of fashion that PRINTS are the important thing and pattern and color only secondary, the designers have gone back a hundred years and brought out quaintly old-fashioned effects that seem to stroll down boxwood bordered paths.

Prints for afternoon, prints for sports, prints, too, for evening wear! In wondrous array at Rich's you find them from Cheney, Mallinson, Duplan, at $1.98, $2.48, $3.50, $3.95, $4.95.

Miss Alexa Stirling Weds Dr. Fraser at Home Ceremony

Characterized by elegant simplicity in every detail was the marriage of Miss Alexandra Williamson Stirling and Dr. Wilbert Grieve Fraser, of Canada, which took place Thursday evening at 6:15 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander W. Stirling, at East Lake.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate relatives by Dean Thomas H. Johnston, of St. Philip's cathedral.

An altar of stately palms graced one end of the long living room and standing in relief against this background of greenery were pedestals of Easter lilies and candelabra holding white burning tapers. The chandeliers and doorways were gracefully entwined with southern smilax, beautiful baskets of spring flowers, together with potted plants and palms, were effectively used throughout the house.

Miss Josephine Winkle, of Port Washington, L. I., was maid of honor, and the bride's only attendant. She was beautifully gowned in a model of yellow shaded chiffon, adorned with clusters of yellow daisies. The bodice, which reflected the bateau neckline, was fashioned with flowing graceful sleeves, and the skirt was very full, trimmed with exquisite daisies.

Major J. Fraser Hadley, of Ottawa, Canada, acted as Dr. Fraser's best man.

The beautiful bride was given in marriage by her father, Dr. A. W. Stirling. Her exquisite Titian loveliness was enhanced by her wedding gown of white tulle, which was embroidered in a handsome design of pearls and silver beads. The gown, which was fashioned along straight lines, was finished with a delicate lace to the skirt. The bodice was made with out sleeves and reflected the round neckline, around which was draped in graceful folds a scarf of misty white tulle. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies, and wore a handsome string of pearls, the gift of the groom, and a magnificent diamond bar pin and ring, presented to her by the Atlanta Athletic club, on the two occasions when she won the national women's golf title.

Following the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Stirling entertained at dinner, covers being laid for the bride and groom, Miss Winkle, Major Hadley, Dean and Mrs. Johnston, Miss Nesie Fraser, Mrs. Robert Moore, Colonel W. L. Peel, Sidney Kay, British consul, Dr. and Mrs. Stirling, and Miss Nora Stirling.

Mrs. Stirling wore a handsome gown of black lace and georgette. Miss Nora Stirling, of New York, the bride's sister, wore a beautiful imported gown of black crepe, hand-decorated in exquisite colors. The elegantly appointed table was adorned with a handsome lace cover and the central decoration was a

Mrs. W. F. Hackett, Of New York, To Visit Mrs. Durden

Mrs. William Field Hackett, of New York, will arrive Sunday to be the guest of Mrs. W. H. Durden at her home in Inman Park.

Mrs. Hackett is a charming woman and is an admired member of New York's club and social life.

During her visit to Mrs. Durden she will be entertained at a round of social gayeties.

On Monday, Mrs. E. C. Benton will entertain for Mrs. Hackett at her home on Oakdale road.

Mrs. Durden will complement her guest with a tea at the Habersham hall Wednesday afternoon. Twenty-five guests will be invited to meet Mrs. Hackett.

Mrs. Walter Sims will be hostess at a matinee party Thursday at the Lyceum theater.

Dances of other social affairs to be given in honor of Mrs. Hackett will be announced later.

Ponce De Leon School Will Give Play.

The first grade pupils of Ponce de Leon school will have a play on Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium.

"Mother Goose Land" will be presented, with the children in attractive costumes of "make-believe land."

The money realized will buy equipment for the school in the first grade. Adult tickets will be 25 cents and children's 10 cents.

round of brightly tinted spring flowers, in the pastel shades. Monogrammed cards marked the guests' places.

Dr. and Mrs. Stirling entertained at a brilliant reception at the East Lake country club at 8:30 o'clock, in honor of the bride and groom, to which several hundred prominent Atlantans were invited.

The handsome club presented a scene of unusual beauty with its lavish decorations of palms, smilax and Easter lilies. The fireplace in the living room, in front of which the receiving party stood, was banked with tropical palms, and in the center was placed a large basket of Easter lilies garlanded with smilax. The corners of the room were banked with greenery, and the newel posts on the stairway were entwined with smilax and massed with slender palms. Graceful baskets of Easter lilies stood in relief against the windows and doors and adorned the tables. Garlands of smilax decorated the chandeliers and window frames, and the lights were covered with yellow paper shades.

In the dining room stately palms banked the four corners and were also used in front of the fireplace. Graceful ropes of smilax draped the chandeliers and window frames, and were combined with mounds of Dresden flowers to decorate the coffee and punch tables.

After a wedding journey Dr. Fraser and his bride will be at home in Ottawa, Canada.

Gay Affairs Will Assemble College Belles on Vacation

Today will usher in a gay week-end for the college girls and boys who will return to their studies soon after a spring vacation crowded with social affairs of every description.

The Alumni association of the Alpha Delta chapter of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity will entertain with a formal dance this evening at the East Lake Country club. This affair will be given in honor of the active members of the Alpha Delta chapter of Georgia Tech and the Beta Kappa chapter of Emory university and will assemble several hundred members of the college social contingent.

Mrs. Earl D'Arcy Pearce will entertain at her home on Andrews drive in compliment to her daughter, Miss Mary Inman Pearce, and the other Atlanta girls who are attending school at National Park seminary in Washington, D. C.

Miss Mary Bogle will give a luncheon at her home in the Pershing point apartments in honor of Miss Martha Bowen and her guest, Miss Ruby Elkin, of Tupelo, Miss., and Miss Frances Dossett, of Waco, Texas, the guest of Miss Sue Browne Stern.

Charming brides-elect will also be honor guests today. Miss Martha Boykin will be central figure at a luncheon to be given by Mrs. Percy Megabee, and a bride-tea at which Mrs. Franklin Chalmers will entertain.

Miss Oda Teabeut, another bride-elect, and Mrs. Lansing Shield, of New York, will be entertained by Mrs. T. J. Ripley this afternoon.

Major and Mrs. L. B. Clapham will entertain the army social set at supper at their home at Fort McPherson, preceding the dance at the Officers' club.

Confederate Veterans Are Entertained.

The Confederate veterans at the Confederate Soldiers' home were entertained Wednesday afternoon at the Margaret Jones U. D. C. chapter, of Waynesboro, Ga., Mrs. Rosa McMillan, president, assisted by several local U. D. C. members.

The Margaret Jones chapter makes a generous donation every year to be used for the inmates of the Soldiers' home. For the past three years this donation has been sent to Mrs. E. B. Williams, organizer and past president of Fulton chapter, U. D. C., to be dispensed personally to the men at the home.

The entertainment Wednesday was an open air concert, furnished by the Twenty-second United States infantry band, stationed at Fort McPherson, and was held in the beautiful grove surrounding the home.

Mrs. J. W. Kendler, chairman of the Soldiers' home committee, of Fulton U. D. C. chapter, made the arrangements at the home for the entertainment. Mrs. Rosa McMillan, president of Margaret Jones chapter, takes great interest in her work, especially for the comfort and welfare of the Confederate veterans of her county and also the inmates of the Soldiers' home.

Ice cream and cake were served every veteran by a committee of local U. D. C. composed of Mrs. J. W. Kendler, Mrs. A. E. Win, Mrs. Moreland Spear, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. Mattie Miller, Mrs. W. S. McNeel, Jr., Mrs. J. B. Williams, Mrs. W. S. McNeel, Sr., Mrs. J. I. Catchings, Mrs. Emily Jarvis, Mrs. C. L. Anderson, Miss Martha Anderson, Miss Cloverella McNeel, Mrs. Stafford Siddell, Mrs. S. J. Hanna, Miss Elizabeth Hanna, Mrs. John A. Pender, president of Atlanta chapter, and Mrs. J. W. Hollingsworth, president of Fulton chapter, D. C.

Large Audience Greets Players.

A capacity audience greeted the performance of the health play, "The Play," a musical comedy in one act presented Wednesday evening at the Woman's club by the students of O'Keefe Junior High school.

The play was a student project, it was outlined, the music arranged and the scenery painted by the students. Frances Mueller as Susette, the girl, had an opportunity to display wonderful talent and is a graceful dancer.

John Garner was the father and Theo Chopin the agent, Lee Laner, caddy, furnished most of the humor of the play.

The appearance of Bernard Gause and Pritchard Gause in a social number, "Twenty Minutes Under an Umbrella," scored heavily. The solo and chorus numbers were cleverly executed.

The orchestral numbers were furnished by O'Keefe's own orchestra. Miss Annie Ray directed the play.

Miss Dudley Gives Tea at East Lake.

A lovely event of Thursday was the bridge and mah jongg tea at which Miss Mona Dudley entertained at the East Lake Country club.

The guests were Miss Elizabeth Gaines, Miss Helen Winn, Miss Elizabeth Humphries, Miss Margaret Ballard, Miss Isabella Matthews, Miss Mary Virginia Rapp, Mrs. Haywood Dudley, Jr., and Miss Mona Dudley.

Virginia Visitor Is Given Luncheon.

Mrs. Charles Craddock, of Lynchburg, Va., the attractive guest of Mrs. Stephen Barnett, was honor guest at the bridge luncheon at which Mrs. Edwin Peoples was hostess Thursday morning at her home on East Fourteenth street.

Lovely spring blossoms adorned the rooms where the guests were received. Bright friends of the hostess were invited to meet Mrs. Craddock.

Mrs. Candler Honors Miss Teabeut.

Miss Oda Teabeut was honored with a lovely bridge-tea Thursday by Mrs. Walter Candler at Lullwater Lodge in Druid Hills. The trophy room where the game was played was decorated with yellow snapdragons, tulips and jonquils. Tea was served after the game at the individual tables.

Invited to meet Miss Teabeut were Mesdames William Candler, Guy Ayres, F. A. Wilson-Lawson, Howard Candler, D. I. McIntyre, Jr., P. T. Robinson, William Leslie, Asa Warren Candler, Charles T. Nunnally, Annie Bates Walsh, Clyde King, Jr., T. J. Ripley, Henry Heinz, Bryan K. Vann, George Ripley, Jr., George West, Hal L. Landin, Harold Gooden, T. J. McElhenny, Frank Barr, William B. Thomson, Sam Guy, Len Howard, Edgar Dunlap, Homer Thompson, Asa Candler, Jr., and Miss Grace Stephens.

Miss Nell Lee To Be Honored.

Miss Nell Lee, of Tampa, Fla., arrived yesterday to visit Miss Lee, Elizabeth Harner at her home on Peachtree street, and was honor guest at the first of a series of parties to be given in compliment to her Thursday evening.

Mrs. F. O. Walsh will entertain for Miss Harner, a debutante of this season, and her guest, Miss Lee, at a tea-dance at the Biltmore on Saturday afternoon, March 28.

Wednesday evening, April 1, Lieutenant James Turrell will entertain in honor of Miss Lee at the dinner-dance at the Biltmore hotel.

Miss Teabeut and Mrs. Shields Honored.

Miss Oda Teabeut, a bride-elect of April 2, and Mrs. Lansing Shields, the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Byrd, will be the guests of honor at a tea given by Mrs. J. A. Ripley this afternoon at the Atlanta Woman's club.

The guests will include Mrs. Turrell, Mrs. Shields, Mrs. William Candler, Mrs. E. Rivers, Mrs. Henry Heinz, Mrs. Bryan Vann, Mrs. Walter Candler, Mrs. G. R. McIntyre, Jr., Mrs. Harold Gooden, Mrs. C. P. Byrd, Mrs. Ripley Henderson, Mrs. C. P. Byrd, Mrs. Allan Arder, Miss Laura Candler and her guest, Miss Virginia Phillips, of California.

Tea-Room Management Guests at Luncheon.

The Churches-Homes tea-room management was entertained at a luncheon Thursday at the new tea room, 28 Carnegie way.

Those present were Mrs. J. M. High, Mrs. Irving Thomas, Mrs. Denore Potot, Mrs. Clara Power, Mrs. Elizabeth Combs, Mrs. Pearl Willis, Mrs. French, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Lela Holden, Mrs. Ira Malone Gresham, Mrs. Thomas Johnson, Mrs. Alice Brown, John A. Manget, Edgar Garwood, Misses Louise Power, Lela Peavy, Doris Ayers, Inez Sampson, Eva Rowell, Mrs. Pearl Cade.

The tea-room will be formally opened to the public Friday, March 27.

Floral Service Flag To Be Dedicated.

The "Floral Service Flag" of tulips on the capitol grounds will be dedicated on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The public is urged to attend and show honor to the memory of Georgia heroes who gave their lives during the world war.

A most interesting program will be carried out. Music, speeches and most impressive unveiling of the tulip bed. The unveiling will be by the floral service flag committee: Mrs. Charles E. Seiple, Mrs. Phinix Calhoun, Mrs. Robert Maddox, Mrs. John Grant, Mrs. William Kiser and Mrs. Edmund H. Barnes. The color bearer will be Mrs. John L. Tye.

It is the earnest hope of the Mothers' Service Star Legion, of which Mrs. Sam D. Jones is president, that from the idea of the floral service star bed will come a more lasting memorial for our Georgia fallen heroes.

Spring Brides-Elect Honor Guests at Lovely Luncheon

Mrs. Walter O. Foote and Mrs. John Woody were joint hostesses at luncheon Thursday at their home on the Prado, honoring Miss Bright McKernie and Miss Martha Boykin, two popular spring brides-elect.

The hostesses were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. J. P. Peacock and Mrs. Henry Troutman.

Mrs. Foote wore a handsome gown of gray crepe embroidered in cut steel beads.

Mrs. Woody's gown of brown satin was trimmed in cream lace.

The guests were seated at individual tables, seating groups of four. Lovely spring flowers adorned the center of the tables. Dainty hand-painted miniature brides and grooms marked the guests' places.

Covers were placed for the wedding attendants of the two brides-elect and a few of their intimate friends, including Mrs. Peacock, Mrs. Troutman, Mrs. Raymond School To Give Vaudeville Show.

A big "Vaudeville Show" will be given Friday night, March 27, at 7:30 at the Joel Chandler Harris school, by the faculty and pupils of the Joseph E. Brown Junior High school.

The show is under the direct supervision of Mr. Douglas and is being given for the benefit of the school annual. The price of admission is only 25 cents and the public is invited.

The program consists of 10 novel acts interspersed with many pleasing musical numbers.

Mr. Hamilton Is Guest of Honor At Informal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Hinman entertained informally at dinner Thursday evening at their home on Piedmont avenue, the occasion honoring Clayton Hamilton, the distinguished lecturer who is visiting in Atlanta at present, and who is a personal friend of Mr. and Mrs. Hinman, having traveled together in Europe.

The table was graced with a silver basket holding jonquils and other spring flowers, and silver candlesticks held unshaded yellow candles. Miss Ruth Hinman assisted in entertaining and covers were laid for eight.

Mr. Hamilton is giving a series of lectures during his visit in the city as a forerunner of the presentation of Sheridan's play, "The Rivals," which will be given next week at the Atlanta theater with Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske taking the prominent role of "Mrs. Malaprop."

Georgia Playmakers To Hear • Noted Lecturer This Evening

Two lectures on the drama to be given by Clayton Hamilton, widely-famed dramatic critic and lecturer, will be cultural events of today. The morning lecture will be given under the auspices of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs in the ballroom at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel at 10:30 o'clock. The evening lecture will be sponsored by the Georgia Playmakers and will be given at the Central Congregational church at 8 o'clock. The lectures will follow two lectures given on Thursday before the students of Agnes Scott college and of Oglethorpe university and will complete a series of four lectures to be given by Mr. Hamilton while on a three days' visit to Atlanta after delivering a lecture series in Augusta.

As lecturer in the department of dramatic literature at Columbia university, New York city, Mr. Hamilton acquired a high standing among educators 20 years ago and since then he has added to his reputation as a critic an equally wide reputation as an author of books having to do with the technical and critical side of the drama. His high regard for the technical side of the drama is shown in his book "The Elements of the Drama," which is a masterpiece of playwriting and that many theatergoers prefer high-class productions. Mr. Hamilton is delivering a series of lectures in advance of the presentation of "The Rivals" in the larger cities on subjects connected with the possibilities of dramatic interpretation. "The early American stage and its relation to the present-day drama" will be the subject of the lecture before the Atlanta Federation. "Some Important Aspects of the Drama," will be discussed by Mr. Hamilton at the evening lecture sponsored by the Georgia Playmakers. Both lectures are open to the public without charge, and a cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested.

Dr. Brittain Will Speak at Meeting.
Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, invites all members of the organization and everyone interested in hearing this eminent author and critic to attend the lecture at the Biltmore hotel on Friday morning. Mrs. Stevens will introduce Mr. Hamilton.

A delightful musical program will be presented, preceding the lecture, by Mrs. Legare Davis one of Atlanta's widely-known singers. Mrs. Davis will sing a group of soprano songs and will be accompanied by Miss Mary McCool on the piano.

Rev. Witherspoon Dodge, pastor of the Central Congregational church, will introduce Mr. Hamilton at the evening lecture. Mr. Dodge is first vice president of the Georgia Playmakers, of which Mrs. Willard C. Patterson is the president.

Valentino Will Be Seen at Matinee.

Much interest has been aroused in the announcement from the "Better Films" matinee committee that on Saturday at 9:30, Rudolph Valentino will be seen in "The Young Rajah," at the young people's matinee, Howard theater.

This film, which has been adapted from the book of "Amos Judd," has been especially recommended by the national better films committee and the national board of review, for young people of junior school age, although it is equally interesting for any age, according to the statement.

Needlecraft Circle To Hold Meeting.

The April meeting of the Needlecraft circle will be held at the home of Mrs. H. M. Smith, 63 North Main avenue, Wednesday, April 1, at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Murray Howard, president of the Needlecraft circle, will be the speaker of the afternoon. All members are urged to be present, as this is the first meeting of the new year and plans will be formulated for the year. Officers were elected and installed at the March meeting.

Hostesses Named For Art Exhibit.

Atlanta has long been known as the music center of the south, and now it bids fair to compete for the honor of being the art center of the south. Several exhibits of paintings are scheduled for this spring. The first of these, at the Atlanta Woman's club, is of landscapes and portraits by Marjorie Conant Bush-Brown. Beginning next week the southern artists will have an exhibition at the Biltmore, and later on, in May, the Grand Central galleries of New York city will send an exhibition.

The one open to the public now at the Atlanta Woman's club is of works by an artist who has received professional training and the modern masters of the art world, both in the United States and in Europe. Atlanta is showing much interest in these canvases by its resident artist, Marjorie Conant Bush-Brown. The public is cordially invited.

The hostesses for Friday will be Mrs. John Cooper, Mrs. William F. Dunbar, Mrs. Elder, from the art department of the Atlanta Woman's club, and Mrs. John Skinner, wife of Professor Skinner, head of the architectural department of Tech, and Mrs. Marvin Underwood.

SLAMS SALAAMS AND Louise Dooly

THE world is being born anew. The sap of new hopes and ambitions is rising in all of us, as the life of the spring time rises in the trees.

Why should not the New Year of Nature be made the time of one's New Year's resolutions?

NOT a cloud in the sky—clear blue, as nothing but sky can be. Who shall talk of Italy, when even March can give us here at home such sunshine?

A mile's walk, and off comes one's coat.

The signs of the season are peeping out everywhere. The rabbits are back, and the squirrels. Blossoms are still scarce, but all the more precious for that. And buds defy annual rumors of late frost.

The birds are too content now at noon to do more than chirp occasionally. They used up all their enthusiasm this morning over their early worms.

That is one way that men and birds differ:

Birds are amiable before breakfast. OR perhaps you "take the air" these wonderful March days with no exertion to yourself. You leave it all to nature. In other words, you ride.

And then, as you turn the sharp curves, without which there can be no surprise of marvelous panoramas that had been hidden behind the hill, do you let the steepness of the road interfere with your joy in the beauty unfolded ahead of you?

Are you a woman, and do you shrink?

But—there can be no breath-taking beauty of sheer cliff against the sky without its deep drop below.

What manner of life is it that foregoes the grandeur of a gorge for the mere steep menace in it?

In life or a morning's ride, it is foolhardy to trust oneself to incompetency or recklessness, one's own or another's.

But why not be sure of training, of caution, at the wheel, and then look on steep places, the precipices, as a part of the experience essential, if one would have the heights?

"I've always been terrified by steep places," you hear the woman say who screams. And unconsciously there is a little pride in the explanation. It is one of her "feminine" peculiarities.

There is another way to look at it. Any point of view is purely mental. Put your mind on the steepness of the gorge and what would happen if the car went over, and you shrink.

Turn your thoughts to the sheer grandeur of the mountain's height. Remember that you choose your driver because he was safe; that he has a wife and child at home he wants to get back to; and that automobiles are often as trains run off the track.

By the time you think of all this, it will be too late to shrink.

WE have a prophecy to make. And strange to say, it would honor our own countryman.

We believe that the American-made opera, "Alzira," by Francesco de exploited by opera organizations in America why not those which are American-made?

According to all accounts, the Montemezz opera—"Giovanni Gallucci"—recently given its premiere in this country, is so far inferior in quality to the same composer's "Love of Three Kings," which is a much later work, that a natural question is arising: Instead of unearthing an out-dated piece by a known composer, why not a possible "find" in the work of a composer fairly unknown?

Paternalism, we verily believe, has reached the limit. There is a doctor out in Chicago who wants to show the world how to blow its nose.

Paying a debt looks so easy when you are making it.

The church-going of some people is made such a remarkable concession to the Lord. Ever notice it?

March books are closed; all charges made now are entered on April accounts, due May 1

Miss Awtry Weds Mr. Williams At Lovely Home Ceremony

Of interest to a wide circle of friends was the marriage of Miss Lottie Awtry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Awtry, to William Francis Williams, which took place at the home of the bride's parents at 91 Elmira place Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

The wedding was solemnized by the Rev. S. A. Cowan, pastor of Inman Park Baptist church, in the presence of a group of relatives and close friends.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Laura King rendered a piano solo and C. P. Johnston sang "At Dawning" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." "The Flower Song" was softly played during the marriage service.

A profusion of early spring flowers in the pastel shades were artistically arranged on the table. The bride, sister of the bride, entered alone. She wore an ashen of roses crepe-back satin gown, trimmed in narrow gray and black velvet ribbons. She carried a bouquet of pink, lavender and white sweetpeas tied with white ribbon.

The bride entered with her father, L. T. Awtry, by whom she was given in marriage.

The groom entered with his best man, Robert E. Colville.

The bride's gown was fashioned of rosewood satin crepe and was artistically trimmed in rose and gold tissue lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Awtry, the bride's mother, wore a handsome gown of lavender crepe with a corsage bouquet of pink sweetpeas.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Awtry entertained at a reception.

After a wedding trip, the bride and groom will be at home at 91 Elmira place.

Georgia Music Federation Shows Remarkable Growth

Barnesville, Ga., March 26.—(Special.)—Re ports made Thursday from every district in the state to convention of Georgia Federated Music Clubs showed remarkable progress during the past year, 42 new clubs having been organized and thousands of new members added to the local clubs in every section of the state. Mrs. W. P. Bailey, president, and other officials members expressed gratification at the work done.

A varied program is being carried out by the Georgia Music Federation, many of the notable women of Georgia participating. The attendance is large and keenest interest displayed by those present. The band of the Central of Georgia Railway company, of Macon, furnished concert afternoons and evening and Friday night's Choral club of Atlanta will furnish a program.

The Three Arts club were hosts at a beautiful reception Thursday evening at the home of Senator and Mrs. J. C. Collier. The convention will continue through Saturday.

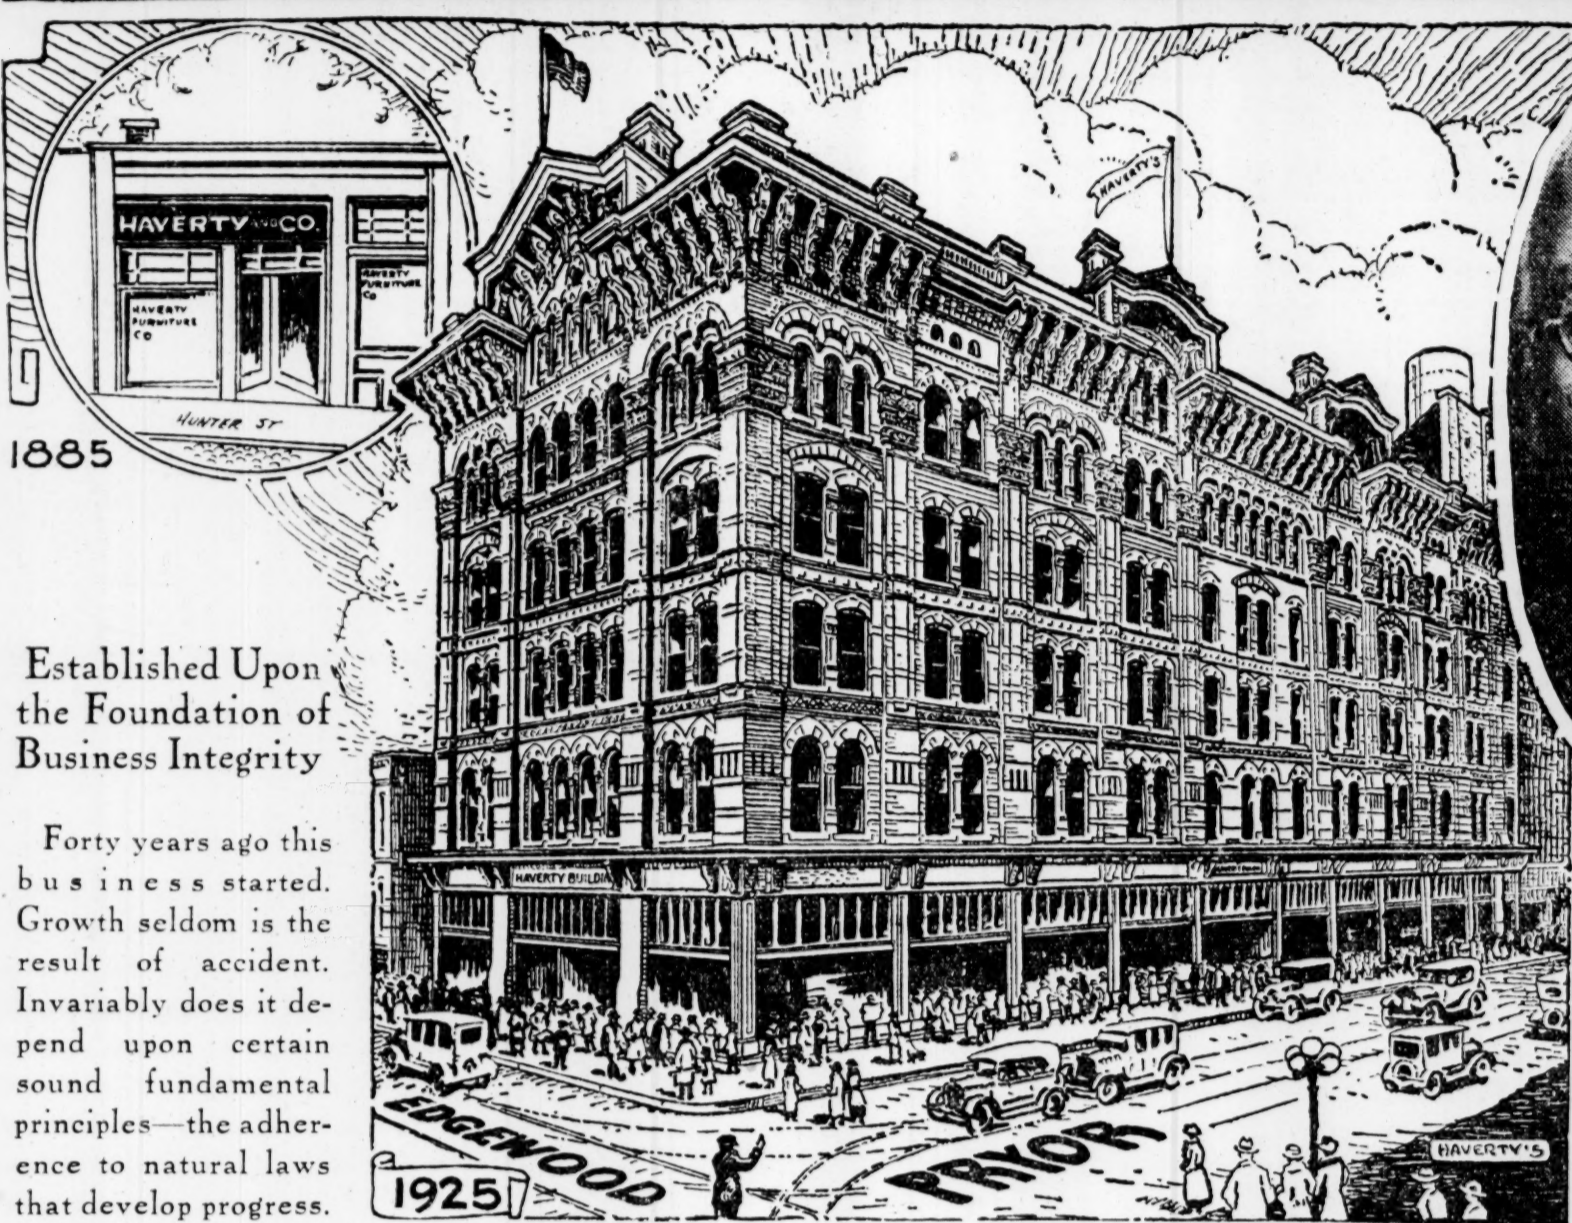

The convention was formally opened Wednesday night with an interesting program, over which Mrs. C. M. Dunn, president of the local Three Arts club, and Mrs. W. P. Bailey, of Savannah, president of the state federation, presided.

Following the invocation by Rev. Arthur Jackson, pastor of the First Baptist church, a chorus of the Three Arts club, rendered "Springtime" and "Lullaby." Addresses of welcome were made by Mrs. E. L. Coleman, vice president of the Three Arts club; Professor L. D. Watson, president of Gordon institute; Professor T. O. Galloway, president of the sixth district A. & M. school; and B. H. Hardy, president of the Barnesville Civic club.

Mrs. Phelps Ensign, of Forsyth, charmed her audience with a beautiful rendition of "Vissi'd'e d'amore," after which greetings to the visiting clubs were extended by Mrs. L. A. Collier, president of the Woman's club; Mrs. Albert Peacock, president of the Willie Hunt Smith chapter of the U. D. C.; Mrs. J. T. Black, for the W. C. T. U., and Mrs. Grady Dumas, president of the Lamar County Federation of Clubs.

Following the response to the addresses of welcome, given by Mrs. E. Vaisiere, of Rome, Mrs. C. M. Dunn introduced Mrs. Bailey, who responded to the introduction and then took charge of the meeting. Mrs. Bailey introduced the state officer of the federation, who made short talks of acknowledgment, after which Mrs. Ensign again delighted the audience with several songs. The president then introduced the federation's district directors and the distinguished guests of the convention, Mrs. Lula Fendall Rogers, formerly of Barnesville, and Mrs. Walter Grace, of Macon, state regent of the U. D. C.

BEAUTY CHATS

BY EDNA K. FORBES.

HATS AND HEADS

For two days we've been chatting about hair—now what about the hats that will cover our heads and what we haven't cut off in the way of hair, this new season? Before you buy your new hats, study the shape of your head and the shape of your face and decide what sort of hat is going to suit you best.

This season's hats are as snug as they can be. The brims are so narrow or so tiny, so soft and so folded that they have little to do with the shape of the hat; they merely give that indefinite thing called "line" which makes from $2 to $20 difference in the price. A shape which came in during the winter, is being carried on into spring and summer hats, as it is so universally becoming. It is the rounded felt brim turning sharply back from the face and then bent down on itself to give width to the sides and a little depth as you see the hat profile. This style is most becoming for good or slightly irregular features, especially if the nose needs a little bringing out. A hood need woman or one with a "pug" must find a little brim, though, and avoid this style.

The small felts are very pretty, and can be bought now and worn well into the summer, probably we'll have some felts at that, for hot months. The smartest ones have a fold or a look across the crown, and many wear the most attractive bunches of felt flowers at the very top. This style lends height to small figures and youthfulness to any figure. Some felts are faced with fine straw, to make them lighter in appearance. All the silk and straw hats carry on this slim, snug outline, largely owing to the influence of cropped heads, which cannot wear heavy or very wide-brimmed hats. I must say the result is excellent, for the new simple, closely-fitting shapes are most becoming. The woman with lots of hair is the only sufferer, she'll find it hard to buy a large enough hat.

Nan—To reduce the legs when there is no need for a general reduction, take any concentrated form of exercise in which the legs are used. Kicking, first with one foot and then the other will help, and so will basketball practice. Massage all the muscles once a day yourself.

Miss Irene M.—If you take a full warm bath every day it will do much to clear your complexion of blackheads. Eat less starchy food, less candy or other rich sweets, and you will get rid of the extra ten pounds, also the tendency to pimples.

Tomorrow: Choosing Colors.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Big Attendance Assured for Art Convention Here

Many of the most distinguished citizens and patrons in the southern states will come to Atlanta to attend the fifth annual convention of the Southern States Art League, to be held at the Biltmore hotel on April 2, 3 and 4, and the fifth annual exhibition of the work of southern artists, to be shown there from April 2 to 30.

J. Carroll Payne, president of the league, Thursday explained that membership in the league is composed of the art associations of the various southern cities, and he stated that he already had received letters from a large proportion of the presidents of these organizations stating their intentions to attend the Atlanta meeting.

Other representatives of the various art associations, and people prominent in southern art circles, as well as leaders in the social life of their respective communities, are expected. Mrs. J. C. Bradford, president of the Nashville Fine Arts and Industrial Arts school; Miss Florence McIntyre, president of the art association of Memphis and vice president of the league; Mrs. Lucius Mansfield, president of the Chattanooga Art association; and Mrs. E. Woodcock, president of the school of art of the Sophie Newcomb Memorial, have signified their intention to come. All of these, in addition to being prominent citizens of the south, are active leaders in the renaissance of art now noticeable in this section of the country.

James Chillum, vice president of the league and president of the art association of Houston, will head a delegation from that city, while the president of the Telfair academy at Savannah, and the president of the art association of Charleston also will be here.

In the exhibit of the works of southern artists, to continue for the entire month of April, there are more than 250 pictures, selected by the jury of selection from the more than 400 submitted. They have been hung to the best possible advantage and undoubtedly will prove a revelation to those Atlantans who in the past have not realized the great strides that the south is making in matters artistic.

During the three days of the league convention, the latter part of next week, there will be business sessions each day, with many attractive entertainment features arranged for the visitors by the local art association.

BALTIMORE HOTEL MAN VISITING IN ATLANTA
Charles H. Consolo, prominent Baltimore hotel man, is at the Atlanta Biltmore on a short business visit to Atlanta. Mr. Consolo is president of the holding and operating company of the Jefferson hotel in Richmond, the Monticello in Norfolk, and the Belvedere in Baltimore. He is a native Virginian.

Mary and Her Lamb

TEACHER TAKES A HAND.

Here's Mary's seat in school. If you've read this story of "Mary and Her Little Lamb" every day and color and cut out the pictures, you will have a whole set of paper dolls with which you can act out the story of Mary and her troubles with her little lamb.

"You can't let your lamb stay in school," declared the teacher. "I'm sorry," answered Mary, more bashful than ever. "He followed me." "Well, he'll have to go home. He upsets things too much." So the teacher put the little lamb out. The poor animal called "Baaa!" to Mary, as if asking her to come along. Mary had a terrible afternoon. She failed in all her lessons because she was so worried for fear her little lamb wouldn't get home safely. (Copyright, 1925, for The Constitution.)

In spite of much competition Newport easily holds its own as the summer capital of American society.

Here the residents are not all New Yorkers, and the society is more representative of the "cream" of American society.

The reason for the gravitation eastward, instead of to some western point, is the dominance of the population and wealth of New York city and environs.

What is Society with a big S? What does it do? And how? Why? When? In this series of articles the author tells from her intimate observation just those things that most of us want to know about the upper ten.

CHAPTER 27—NEWPORT
Newport Holds Its Own But Dark Harbor, Me., Is The Really Rarefied Place.

(Copyright, 1925, in U. S., Canada, Great Britain and South America by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

Newport holds its place as the most exclusive center of American society in the summer. It is the conservative society capital. To be in Newport, in society, certifies that you are "Grade A" society—you count among the elect, there are no gods above you.

Entertainments given at Newport are often on a more elaborate scale than those in New York during the height of the winter season. The great club of Newport, the Casino, has for officers the very top-notch leaders of American society. The mornings usually are spent at Bailey's beach and beautiful bathing suits are exhibited. Another brilliant feature of Newport are the yacht anchorages in its harbor, where some of the finest steam yachts in the world are moored the year round.

Newport is the fixed headquarters and not a changeable, flippant place. There are a great many society folk without villas who go there for two or three weeks every season, either because they have been fortunate enough to get coveted invitations or because they feel it important that they show themselves at Newport. A Newport appearance is tantamount to being in society. And many aspirants to society engage suites at fashionable Newport hotels—yet without avail. Some of the climbers even occupy houses.

For the last few years Southampton, on Long Island, has competed vigorously with Newport, trying to wrest the position of summer society capital from the established center. Newport holds its own, however. Southampton is much gayer and more informal.

Many people regard Southampton as a stepping stone to Newport. When having their plans to enter society their first engage a house in Southampton, feeling it would be presumptuous to jump right into Newport. A season or two later one finds them in their own villa in Newport.

Another conservative resort in America is Bar Harbor, and the most rarefied atmosphere in Maine is breathed at Dark Harbor, an island not so far away from Bar Harbor. There are about thirty big estates at Dark Harbor, one inn and nothing more. You cannot buy a place at Dark Harbor without the consent of the other owners of the estates. It is a strictly limited community.

Bar Harbor has its hotels and boarding houses and private homes for rent, but its chief distinction is its array of big summer homes of society people on the shore. A wonderful shore drive is lined by the gardens of these estates. In the morning society collects in the Bar Harbor Swimming Club because the sea is too cold and the club has a pool. This club also has tennis courts. Everyone takes tea there, too, and musicales are given by the best of musicians. Such artists as Kreisler have played at Bar Harbor during the season.

Tomorrow: Society Seeing America First.

SOCIETY CLUB HEARS ATKINSON SPEAK TODAY

Laurie T. Atkinson, national committeeman of the National Association of American Business Clubs, will be principal speaker at a luncheon of the American Business Club of Atlanta at 1 o'clock today at the Peacock cafe.

A discussion of the district convention, which is to be held in Atlanta, Saturday, April 25, also will feature the program.

The program is in charge of A. C. Wellborn, who has arranged a number of musical selections to be delivered by Rev. Charles B. Tillman, Mrs. Howell Tillman Burns and Mrs. Tillman Douglas. A. T. Danice, president, will preside.

More Coffee in the POT

MORNING Joy Coffee will give you more coffee of the same strength to the spoonful than will coffee taken from a can of ordinary coffee. To put the matter in another way, you can use a smaller spoonful of Morning Joy Coffee to make a cup of coffee of the same strength than you would have to use of another brand.

If you get 40 cups of coffee from the average can of coffee, a can of Morning Joy Coffee will make for you 50 cups and sometimes more.

You get 25% to 50% more delicious, flavorful, invigorating coffee from a can of Morning Joy than you do from other brands.

Keeps The Aroma, Flavor, Strength

Morning Joy Coffee is packed in a vacuum can which retains all the original qualities of the coffee. A can of Morning Joy Coffee can be kept unopened for two years and then opened, and it will be just as good as the day it was packed. Other coffees quickly lose their strength in the ordinary can, but the vacuum can preserves intact its original aroma, flavor and strength. This is the reason that Morning Joy Coffee gives you more cups to the pound.

Sometimes Morning Joy Coffee sells for a few cents a pound more than other coffees. It is worth any difference that you might pay, not only because the satisfaction of having delicious coffee is worth a few cents more, but it is actually cheaper, because you get more cups to the pound. Specially prepared and blended in one of America's finest coffee packing plants, located in one of the world's greatest coffee markets, Morning Joy is the very finest coffee you can buy. Found at all high-grade grocery stores.

"I'm too unhappy; I can't talk." She went out a few moments later, leaving me alone with my grief. I was glad to see her go. I had taken just one room at the hotel, and Virginia promptly took a sitting-room and another bedroom. "Your father is much better," she told me, when she came back upstairs. "And he'll be here again in a few days. We're going to be married again." The absurdity of the situation struck me, in spite of my sorrow, the world suddenly seemed turned topsy-turvy. Frank Harrison called shortly after that, and she let him come up. He was awfully kind to me; I appreciated that, in spite of my wretchedness. "She looks simply dreadful," I heard Virginia say to him, thinking I wouldn't hear. "I wish you'd get her to go down with you; she needs some fresh air." He came over to the window where I was standing a few moments later. "Nancy, won't you go for a drive with me?" he asked. His voice was very sympathetic and kind. I felt more drawn to him than I had to my mother. "Not now; this afternoon, perhaps," I answered. When afternoon came I was glad

HARD JOB TO PICK MINISTER TO CHINA

Washington, March 26.—Insistent pressure by friends of various aspirants is holding up appointment of a minister to China to relieve Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman for his new duties as ambassador to Germany. The filling of the vacant position in Rumania and Albania also is caught in the blockade, due to political activities of friends of rival claimants, but the delay in the Chinese appointment is causing the greatest concern in official quarters because of the chaotic situation in that country.

Dr. Schurman is needed urgently in Berlin, but there is every evidence of reluctance to leave the Peking legation even temporarily without a qualified minister in charge. Unsettled political conditions throughout the Chinese republic make it desirable that the American minister keep a day-to-day touch to assure effective influence in protecting Americans and their properties in event of widespread disorders.

Students of Chinese developments over the last two decades, and particularly during and since the world war, report that the vast and unwieldy fabric of the old monarchy is in the throes of a political awakening on the part of a very large group of its hundreds of millions of inhabitants. The active centers of this spread of political thought have been traced largely to the student groups and there is said to be today in China a movement which is assimilating rapidly much of the doctrine preached in Soviet Russia.

NICARAGUA CONGRESS REJECTS $500,000 LOAN

Managua, Nicaragua, March 26.—The Nicaraguan congress today rejected the proposed loan of $500,000 recently negotiated by the government with New York bankers. The congress considered objectionable the terms on which the loan was based.

Junior Chamber Is Organized At Macon Meet

Macon, Ga., March 26.—The Georgia Junior Chamber of Commerce was organized at a meeting here today. W. W. Alexander, of Thomasville, was elected president; George Meyers, Atlanta, first vice president; Peyton W. Jones, Macon, second vice president; Dr. H. B. Kennedy, Atlanta, third vice president. The secretary and treasurer will be appointed by the president.

FRENCH BIRTH RATE CONTINUES DECLINE

Paris, March 26.—The French birth rate continues to decline, according to the vital statistics of last year, just completed. The births numbered 722,101 and the deaths 679,885, the excess of births over deaths being 72,216 as compared with 95,000 for the preceding year. Dr. Variot, authority on vital statistics, remarks that, but for the population of the recovered province of Alsace-Lorraine, where large families are still usual, the situation would be much worse.

VALDOSTA MAN SHOT BY FELLOW WORKER

Valdosta, Ga., March 26.—(Special.)—Lew W. Williams was shot and seriously wounded this morning by C. R. Reid, a linotype operator. Williams and Reid, both of this city, worked for the same concern and it is said they had had several disputes prior to the shooting. According to other employees, the two men had a dispute Wednesday afternoon but it was thought the matter was settled between them.

DRY ENFORCEMENT BILL BEATEN IN NEW YORK

Albany, March 26.—Prohibition took another blow Thursday night when the state senate defeated a proposed state prohibition enforcement act by a vote of 26 to 24. Five republicans joined with 21 democrats to beat the measure. Only two senators, the man who introduced it and the republican majority leader, defended the bill. All other speakers united in condemning it. The proposed law would have taken the place of the Mullin-Gage law which gave fame to Governor Al Smith when he signed it repeal two years ago.

OFFICERS SAVE 4 MEN FROM MARYLAND MOB

Snow Hill, Md., March 24.—A mob of more than 100 persons at Berlin, Md., late this afternoon held up and stopped the big automobile in which officers were bringing the Bevans brothers, their father and a negro chauffeur to Snow Hill after their arrest near Wilmington today, and threatened to lynch the prisoners. Around the car the crowd surged. "Turn them over to us, let's lynch them," the crowd shouted. Sheriff Wilmer Purnell drew his pistol and swung out on the running board. He ordered the mob to disperse and declared he and the other officers would defend the prisoners to the last and would shoot their way through the crowd if necessary. The mob finally obeyed.

Tonight the prisoners are securely locked up in the Snow Hill jail. A crowd stands outside the building, but police have established a "dead line" and none are allowed to go near the structure.

The two Bevans brothers, indicted for arson, escaped from an automobile in which they were being taken to Baltimore Tuesday after they had shot and beaten two officers.

to go. For Virginia had phoned several of her friends, asking them to come to tea with her, and I couldn't bear even to stay in my bedroom, where I could hear them talking. As I crossed the living room on my way to the outer door I paused a moment to speak to them. I had begun to feel caloused, as if nothing could touch me.

Virginia looked lovely. She was beautifully dressed, and very happy. "Aren't you going to stay to your mother's engagement party?" one of the women asked me, laughing. I realized that Virginia had not said anything to them about Jim's death. Of course she wouldn't; it would never do to have the shadow of sorrow cast over her party.

Frank Harrison tucked me into the wide seat of his new roadster without a word, and a moment later we were working our way through the traffic of late afternoon.

My thoughts went back to the afternoon, so recent when I had last driven with him. I had been so eager then to have Jim go out of my life, and to have Bill Ewing take the place that he had left. Now I would have given anything to have Jim back, and Bill meant nothing to me!

Frank took me to dinner at a restaurant that stands at the edge of a beautiful little ravine. We arrived there just at twilight, and as I sat at a table looking down into the green depths I felt as if I had left New York forever. I would go back to it, of course; there were many hard days that I would have to go through, when Jim's body was brought home. There would be a military funeral, of course. I remembered one that I had seen; the heavy, dull beat of the drums, the mournful strains of the funeral march.

When that was over, I would go away somewhere. There would be nothing to fill my life; the gay parties that I had enjoyed could never interest me again.

I wondered what lay ahead for this new Nancy Larrabee.

IDEAL HOMES SOUGHT FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS

Detroit, Mich., March 26.—An endowment fund with which to maintain Spencer Manor as the home of disabled and aged veterans, their widows and orphans, is contemplated by the National Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Spencer Manor, a 472-acre tract of rolling country land near Easton Rapids, Mich., and fronting for a mile on the placid Grand river, was the gift of Corey J. Spencer, wealthy chairman of Jackson, Mich., and a member of the order. "A village full of life, hope and happiness" is Mr. Spencer's idea of what Spencer Manor should be. The tract of land which he decided to the organization lies between Jackson and Lansing and is of clay loam. All but 100 acres of the soil is tillable.

Giant trees, small brooks and springs and numerous glens add to the attractiveness of the site.

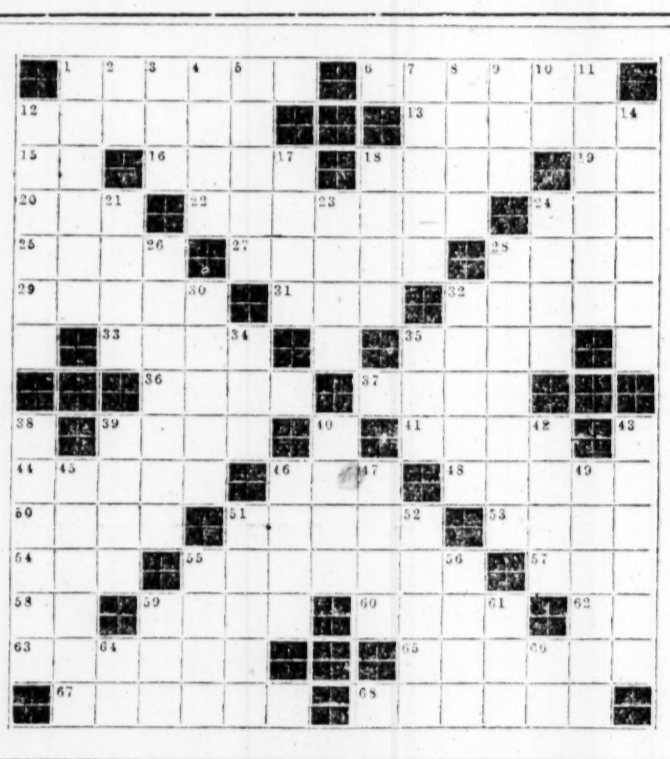

It is here the V. F. W. looking forward, hopes to see grow a village of neat little homes, with well-kept gardens, a school for children and a place for Sabbath worship. "A home rather than an institution," is the way officers of the organization outline the project. It is intended there shall be work for those who can work, and comfort for those unable to labor.

TWINS PROVE PUZZLE FOR MANILA POLICE

Manila, March 26.—Traffic police are in a quandary as to how to deal with Simplicio and Lucio Goins, the Samar twins, who were joined together at birth. The twins have learned to drive an automobile and have developed a great liking for speeding within the city. Traffic officers hesitate to arrest the twins for exceeding the speed limit because the real offender cannot be arrested without taking the other twin into custody as well.

The twins, now about 25 years old, are wards of Teodoro Yano, Filipino capitalist and former resident commissioner at Washington. They have been examined by surgeons in various parts of the world but they refuse to submit to an operation that would separate them.

Whole World Contributes to Medicine

Ginger from India—Jodine from Chile—Olive Oil from Italy—Epsom Salts from England—Menthol from Japan and roots and herbs from almost every country in the world combine their share towards alleviating the ills of the race. No other medicine, however, compounded from roots and herbs has ever attained such a marvelous record for success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For over fifty years it has been overcoming some of the most stubborn ailments of womanhood, and is constantly growing in popularity and favor.—(ad.)

FLORIDA CAMPAIGN GREAT AD CAMPAIGN

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 26. Recommendation that a bill be presented to the state legislature at its next meeting, requesting that the sum of $200,000 per year be appropriated for the next two years, to be used for advertising Florida, was unanimously adopted by members of the all-Florida Development conference at their business session this morning. The recommendation was made by the committee on state participating in all-Florida publicity, of which E. C. Sewell, of Miami, is chairman, and Earl Lehman, of Orlando, secretary.

In his address Mr. Sewell pointed out that the principal in an advertising campaign of this state was needed for five principal reasons:

1. The nation-wide publicity would be of importance to all sections of the state, and not to any one community.
2. An advertising campaign such as has been planned could be executed successfully only by the state, and not by any one community.
3. The state of Florida should not expect any one portion of it to bear all of the expenses of advertising.
4. The people of the state would not object to the state participating in the advertising campaign, because there would be no objection to publicity that would be beneficial to all.
5. The increase in business and property values that would result from such a campaign would far exceed the cost.

A campaign of this nature would double the population and wealth of the state.

7. By doubling the population and wealth, the taxes would automatically be lowered.

8. The increased population would result in real values doubling.

9. Increased population would result in increased agriculture.

DRIVER IS ARRESTED UNDER JITNEY LAW

T. J. Samples, 27, of 120 Laurel avenue, was the first driver to suffer under the new city jitney ordinance, being arrested Thursday night near the corner of Forsyth and Mitchell streets.

Two cases were docketed against Samples, as it was said that he operated his jitney Wednesday night and was operating it again Thursday when arrested by Patrolman S. W. Roper and Sergeant S. J. Roberts. He was released upon the payment of $25 bond in each case.

Persons were in the car when the police appeared on the scene. They were told to walk or wait for a street car. Officers charged that Samples had been operating on the Lucile avenue line, but he entered denial, declaring that he was running a taxi and had no special route.

The jitney ordinance became effective Tuesday morning.

INTEREST GROWING IN BOILER-FIRING COURSE IN CITY

With interest in the weekly lessons on care of boilers growing, approximately 75 local manufacturers and negro boiler firemen attended the course given at city hall Thursday night by A. W. Jones, city smoke inspector.

Down draft boilers and inclined stoker grates were the subjects of this week's lesson, and minute instruction was given by Mr. Jones on eliminating fire-room hazards, which are caused by carelessness, and on proper conditions of boilers for inspection.

Large amounts of money can be saved by proper care and firing of boilers to both manufacturers and property owners, Mr. Jones stated. Figures last year show that smoke caused property damages aggregating $3,750,000, he explained, adding that improper care of boilers also increased greatly the cost of coal burned by the various manufacturing plants.

The Smoke Abatement league will meet early next week to plan steps for eliminating the smoke nuisance and Saturday, April 4, local coal dealers plan to meet with members of the league to make plans for fitting fuel to conditions and styles of all grates.

NEGROES ADVISED TO STAY IN SOUTH AND NOT MIGRATE

"The exodus of the colored people from the south has done much to impede their progress along religious, educational and civic lines where they gained the confidence and respect of their neighbors," asserted Rev. J. A. Hadley, in delivering a special lecture, Thursday, to the ministers of South Atlanta District conference in St. John African Methodist Episcopal church.

"No race of people can gain the confidence and respect of the community who are moving from one section of the country to the other," said Dr. Hadley. "It is the duty of the ministers to advise the colored people to stay in the rural districts, on the farms, where they can rear their children without coming in contact with some of the evil influences of city life."

Rev. R. H. Ward and Rev. W. B. Lawrence spoke on the opportunity the colored people have to reach their highest development in the south.

Rev. C. D. Thornton and J. G. Brown delivered addresses urging the colored people to be law-abiding citizens.

Fate Deals Tragic Blows To Tiny Wanderer at Grady

NAMELESS WAIF SEEKS HOME AND LOVE

Above is shown the tiny, wandering stranger whose life of only a few days has been full of tragedy, snuggling in the arms of Acting Chief of Police E. L. Jett at Grady hospital.

In a big, still ward at Grady hospital Thursday there slept a tiny baby into whose life of only a couple of weeks or thereabout has already been crowded more of tragedy than the average man who lives peacefully at his own fireside sees in his allotted span of three scores and ten years.

Born nameless waif in an Atlanta hospital; torn from his mother's care only a short time after his birth by the stern demands of an outraged family; bundled up in an given to a couple on Harris street; taken out of this home by the police on complaints that it was being neglected; placed in Grady hospital, and now awaiting adoption by some man or woman who will give it the love and attention it deserves—these are the "hard knocks" that a busy, unkind world has already meted out to the little stranger.

And when the babe fills the darkened Grady ward with his baby sounds—all innocent of the reverses that life already has destined for him—a mother in another part of the city stretches weary arms toward Grady hospital, weeping through the night and yearning for the babe that is flesh of her flesh and bone of her bone. At the request of persons interested in the case of the little wanderer, her identity is kept secret.

Physicians attending the mother at the time of the baby's birth say the mother was in perfect health and the child a perfect specimen of a babyhood, free from disease or defects.

Hospital authorities are holding the child pending its adoption by some family, and any inquiries regarding the baby will be answered by its prompt guardians.

Pretty Indian Nautch Girl Bids Court for Protection

AFRAID MAHARAJAH WILL ORDER HER DEATH

Bombay, March 26.—As the trial, which may implicate the Maharajah of Indore in the plot to mar her beauty and murder her lover, began, Mumtaz Begum, the Nautch girl beauty who used to ornament the Indian court, has applied for protection for herself and family.

She says she is afraid the angry Maharajah will order her death.

Ten Indians are held as suspects for the assault upon Mumtaz and her lover, Kadir Bakhsh, which occurred on fashionable Malabar hill in Bombay on January 13. The prosecution hopes to prove that the plot was to murder Kadir and to kidnap Mumtaz and to restore her to the granite castle at Indore, where she spent the later years of her childhood and from which she escaped finally to become the mistress of Kadir.

Mumtaz and Kadir put up such a fight when the band of assassins leaped on them that the attention of passing British naval officers was attracted. The attackers fled after killing Kadir and mutilating Mumtaz.

The frightened girl took the stand for a few moments Thursday to tell of her life at the Indore court, her great beauty became known to the Maharajah and she entered his palace as his mistress while she was still in her teens, she said. For ten years she remained a prisoner at the potent ruler's whim. In her own little world of tendants and flowers, her word was law, subject only to the revision of the great, dark man who had made her his toy.

Once after the war, Mumtaz related, she accompanied the Maharajah to London. It was a great occasion. The Indian prince and his suite occupied a whole floor in a great hotel. There were unlimited funds for expenditures to the wonderful shops. While in England a baby was born to Mumtaz.

"What became of the child?" her counsel asked.

"It was murdered, sir," the girl answered softly.

India is alert to the tremendous possibilities of the case. Whether the Maharajah will be connected directly with the crime is problematical. The prosecution will endeavor to show that the plot was formed in Indore and that the gangsters bribed Kadir's chauffeur so that the attack might occur on Malabar hill as the lovers strolled through the beauty of an Indian night.

Since Kadir's death, his mother has offered to provide Mumtaz with a fortune. Kadir's will insured her future in other respects.

HARRIS PUSHES PROBE OF FERTILIZER PRICE

Washington, March 26.—Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, stated today that he was gratified to learn that the recent increase in the price of fertilizers of from $5 to $6 a ton could not be attributed to an increase in the price of potash by the German-French syndicate.

"Potash is one of the essential ingredients in fertilizers," Senator Harris said, "and when I saw the other day that the French and German potash producers had formed a syndicate, I was apprehensive that the advance in the price of fertilizers, which the department of justice is now investigating in Georgia and elsewhere at my request, was attributable to an increase in the price of potash. It was for the purpose of developing what the foreign potash syndicate had done or proposed to do in the matter of the price of their product that I took the matter up with Secretaries Kellogg and Hoover. Now that it develops that the increase in the price of fertilizer is not due to any increase in the cost of potash the government must look elsewhere for an explanation of the additional burden which producers of fertilizers are imposing upon the farmers."

FLORENCE BANK FAILS TO OPEN ITS DOORS

Florence, S. C. March 26.—The First National bank of Florence, one of the largest banks in the Pee Dee section, did not open for business this morning. Its affairs have been taken over by the national bank examiner.

A notice posted on the door, bearing the signature of the directors, stated that the closing was due to persistent withdrawals of funds running over a period of several days. The withdrawals were started on a rumor that the notice characterized as "unfounded."

The directors, according to their statement, believe the bank is solvent. The bank is capitalized at $150,000.

C. W. PRICE HURT

C. W. Price, of 167 Bankhead avenue, was carried to Grady hospital Thursday night in a serious condition as the result of being knocked down late in the afternoon by an automobile near the corner of DeKalb and Moreland avenues. He is suffering with a broken leg and lacerations and bruises about the body.

According to Hubert M. Rylee, an eye-witness to the accident, the car was occupied by a man and two women. The driver of the machine stopped and gave his name as W. T. Tucker, of Athens, Ga., but the identity of the woman was not disclosed, he said.

Assistant Chief of Police C. P. Connolly has ordered the case investigated.

HEALTH DOCTOR ASKED TO ENFORCE MILK LAW

All pumps and dippers for use in serving sweet milk are in direct violation of the milk ordinance recently passed by city council, it was stated Thursday, by Councilman W. E. Saunders, in demanding that John P. Kennedy, city health officer, prosecute all owners of restaurants, soda fountains, and other places using pumps to serve milk.

Mr. Saunders stated that little attention has been paid to the ordinance despite the fact that soda fountain, restaurant, and hotel owners were given sufficient notice, and that several pumps have been installed after passage of the ordinance.

Even milk used in mixed drinks must be served in bottles, Mr. Saunders explained. The milk must be poured directly into the glass from a sealed bottle, and the seal restored to the bottle as soon as the drink is mixed.

"We are paying two inspectors $140 per month each, to enforce the ordinance," Mr. Saunders declared, and as I am chairman of the sanitary committee of council, it is up to me to see that the law is enforced. If the inspectors do not get some results, I will ask that the positions be discontinued."

SIX NEGROES HELD FOR STORE BURGLARY

Six out of eleven negroes arrested early Thursday morning by Patrolmen C. H. Harper and R. L. Mosley in connection with the burglary of the Marbut Minor company store, in East Atlanta, are still being held by the police, after being released after a severe grilling.

Those held are Oscar Hardean, Lowmy McDaniel, George Davis, Jim Doozie, Maggie Hill and Paul Curry. Practically all of the loot taken from the store, which consisted of merchandise valued at $750, was recovered by the arresting officers in a vacant lot just off Glenwood avenue, near the store that was robbed.

The arresting officers declined to discuss what information they had gathered against the prisoners, but said they would be held for the present under a blanket charge of suspicion.

OFFICERS PRAISED FOR ENFORCEMENT OF SUNDAY LAWS

A letter commending activities of Officers Jim Chambers and J. A. Rogers, a recent episode in enforcing Sunday observance by retail grocers of the city, Thursday was received by Acting Chief E. L. Jett, from R. V. Bergen, secretary of the Retail Food Dealers' association.

The two officers have made six cases in the past two weeks against grocers who failed to close their doors Sundays.

Mr. Bergen stated that he hoped that more officers would keep watch and see to it that no grocery store remained open.

STEAMER TO EXTRACT BROMINE FROM OCEAN

New York, March 26.—The steamship Ethyl will sail April 15 from Wilmington, Del., to extract bromine from the ocean.

A world shortage of bromine, which is said to threaten both industry and science, caused the Ethyl to be fitted out as a factor for recovering bromine from seawater. The American Chemical society announces. The Ethyl will call at no port, but will roam the ocean and extract from the waters her cargo of bromine, which is regarded as essential to medicine, motor oils and to the ethyl fluid of motor fuel. The rapid development of ethyl gasoline in automobile operation is being the cause of the shortage.

Chemical experts estimate that each 1,700 gallons of sea water contains one pound of bromine. A. M. Maxwell, vice president of the Ethyl Gasoline corporation, says a new process will enable the Ethyl to obtain 100,000 pounds of bromine monthly.

Stockholders' Meeting. Notice is hereby given that a special meeting of the stockholders of Georgia Railway and Power Company has been duly called by the Board of Directors and the President, to be held at the principal office of the Company, Atlanta, Georgia, on the 10th day of April, 1925, at 11:00 o'clock in the morning, and that at said meeting an increase in the First Preferred stock of the Company, amounting to its charter and by-laws and any other matter that may be presented, will be considered.

W. H. WRIGHT, Secretary.

Three Viaduct Committees Are Appointed by Mayor

Three committees, appointed by Mayor Walter A. Rife, to push plans for new viaducts over railroad tracks at Central avenue and Pryor street will meet at the earliest possible moment, it was announced Thursday by the respective chairmen.

However, it is improbable that any meetings will be held until after next Wednesday, when engineers of the three railroads affected, with the engineer of the street railway company, will meet here to lay preliminary plans for the new bridges.

Committees Named. A citizens' committee, a councilmanic committee and a state or legislative committee were named by the mayor Thursday. Their duties will be, first to organize the present committee, to obtain permission from the city engineer to build the viaducts; and second, to do everything possible to obtain permission from the legislature to build the bridges, and also to take steps in plans for the actual construction.

The citizens' committee is composed of Reuben R. Arnold, chairman; Robert F. Maddox, C. W. Cunningham, Bolling H. Jones and John W. Slaton, Jr.

Alderman W. B. Harrisfield is chairman of the councilmanic committee, other members being Alderman W. R. Duvall and Councilman C. D. Knight, W. M. Etheridge and John A. White.

Members of the state committee are Roland Ellis, of Macon, chairman; H. H. Dean, of Gainesville; R. L. J. Smith, of Commerce; Lawrence Camp, of Fairburn, and W. D. Suttie, of Savannah.

Will Outline Duties. Duties of each committee will be outlined in detail at a joint conference to be called by the mayor soon after the engineers' meeting next week, the chief executive stated Thursday.

The first step toward construction of the bridges, as stated by speakers at the banquet Wednesday night, is obtaining permission of the legislature, which is necessary because the property to be bridged is state-owned. However, it is planned to proceed at once with steps which would permit start of actual construction as soon as the necessary permission is obtained.

Price Reduction For Immediate Sale

We are authorized to sell a beautiful, new, eight-room, two-story brick home in Druid Hills at a price which covers actual cost of construction and value of the lot. It has four spacious bedrooms, steam heat and every convenience of the modern home. The lot is beautifully shaded and fronts 100 feet on one of the most attractively developed roads in Druid Hills. The owner wants to make an immediate sale. Call one of our salesmen for appointment. If all cash is paid for equity, the price can be made very attractive.
